Lebanon County Dairy Bowl Teams Capture State Titles

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — For the second year in a row, the Lebanon County Dairy Bowl team has taken first place in the state bowl contest.

In addition, the state's junior dairy bowl team is also from Lebanon County, making it the first time that both the state's senior and junior dairy bowl teams have come from the same county.

Both teams earned the titles during the Junior Holstein Association's annual convention held last weekend in Reading. The teams are to go on to represent the state in the national dairy bowl contests, to be held in Sioux Falls, S.D., during the National Holstein Convention, June 24 through 27.

For the second year in a row Lebanon County's dairy bowl team has won the right to represent the state in the national dairy bowl contest scheduled to take place in Sioux Falls, S.D. at the national convention of the National Holstein Association. From the left are Angie Bollinger, David Lentz, Terry Hill, Duane Nolt and coach Mike Kunkle. Representatives from Lebanon County also made a 'first' in that the junior division dairy bowl team also comes from that county and will also go to the nationals.

Last year's team didn't fare well at the nationals, but with the experience of one national competition under its belt, members expect to be better prepared for the national competition.

On the top state junior team are:

Maryland Convention Details Set

BELTSVILLE, Md. — The 1991 Maryland Holstein Convention is set to be held March 8 at the Turf Valley Hotel and Country Club in Ellicott City, according to association officials.

The schedule of events includes the annual business meeting, awards presentations, a number of informational programs and workshops for adults and youth, a banquet and a sale.

The two-day convention is split with all activities, except the sale, to be held on Friday, March 8. The

Equipment Manufacturers Project 1991 Sales

CHICAGO, Ill. — When predictions made by equipment manufacturing companies are consolidated into an industry outlook, unit retail sales in 1991 of farm machinery and farmstead type equipment are expected to be steady to slightly down, with dollar volume projected by many companies to be on par with the previous year.

Farm equipment sales last year continued many of the increases recorded in 1989 — 15 to 25 percent for many product lines. A favorable crop year, good commodity prices, increased acres farmed, strengthened farmer financial positions and previously delayed equipment purchases combined to result in strong sales for farm field equipment.

Cornucopia Invites Legislators To Dinner

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—In case state legislators needed to be reminded that agriculture and agribusiness are Pennsylvania's number one industries, the State Council of Farm Organizations invited them to dinner. This happened Monday evening at the 1991 Keystone Cornucopia where the $40 per plate dinner featured all kinds of good fruits, vegetables, breads and meats — all produced in Pennsylvania. The event, attended by 400 farm and political representatives, was held in the Harrisburg Hilton several blocks from the capitol building in Strawberry Square.

The keynote speaker, Dr. Lamartine Hood, dean at Penn

N.E. Chicken Parts

Feb. 6, 1991

Trucklot buying interest generally slowed and was no better than fair on most items. Supplies of boneless breasts were readily available; however, buyers were cautious and product was slow to clear. Breasts with ribs were in fairly good balance and the bulk of trades were at unchanged prices. Line run breasts were irregularly available but where extra product was traded it was often at discount to normal practices Leg items were adequate and in fairly good balance. Wings were adequate to occasionally fully adequate

National Egg Market

Feb. 6, 1991

The market tone was barely steady to weak on the lighter sizes, about steady but cautious on the balance. Demand was about moderate with an improved call noted in areas of attractive retail promotions. Supplies were usually in good balance and readily available for current dealer needs. Breakers were generally working according to needs and for the most part had no difficulty in maintaining desired schedules.

East PA & NJ Poultry

Feb. 6, 1991

Fowl markets appear to be steadier at current lower levels. Inability to maintain clearances of dressed product force most processors to reduce slaughter schedules.

"2852 alfalfa stands up to everything."

"I've been using 2852 for four years," says Clyde Kreider of Millersville, Pa., "and it takes dry weather and wet weather equally well.

"In fact, two years ago when we had a great deal of wet weather it stood right through it when other alfalfas were going down."

Big on Protein

Funk 2852 features good lower leaf stay-green for improved forage quality.

"It's a real good looking alfalfa with leafy, fine stems," adds Kreider. "Tests have been good on haylage, and the protein content is up there, too."

Bigger on Yields

A fast-starting alfalfa, 2852 produces big yields thanks to its excellent regrowth. In fact, Kreider's field yielded a record 8.8 tons in the 1988 Pa Forage & Grassland Council trials.

"2852 will yield with anything out there," offers Kreider. "If we had taken a fifth cutting in 1988 it would have topped 10 tons."

Backed by CIBA-GEIGY

Best of all, 2852 is backed by CIBA-GEIGY research. That's why you can count on it for unmatched yields, outstanding disease resistance and superior forage quality.

Find out for yourself why 2852 can stand up to everything. Talk to your local Hoffman Seed sales representative today!

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

FEB. 11-17, 1991

Sunshine on the 12th foreshadows much wind

Feb 12, 1809 Abraham Lincoln is born in a cabin near Hodgenville Kentucky Feb 13 1635 classes begin at the Boston Latin School, the first public school in America Feb 15, 1768 Benjamin Jackson of Philadelphia, Pa advertises that he is "the original establisher and only mustard manufacturer on the continent Feb 16, 1937 the DuPont Corporation receives a patent for nylon fiber Force is all conquering but its victories are short lived — Abraham Lincoln

Ask the Old Farmer Is there any way to remove the gummy buildup on our cherry wood banister and spindles without stripping the color? D V, N Y

Use a solution of equal parts vinegar mineral oil and turpentine Shake well before each use and rub it on the surface with a soft cloth This will not work if old varnish is causing the gumminess In that case you'll have to strip the wood and refinish

Home Hints Don t discard old plastic tablecloths Save and use as drop cloths when painting

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England. Snow continues as the week begins, then becoming milder Midweek brings clearing, but it s very cold Rain for the weekend, with snow in the mountains Greater New York-New Jersey: A snowstorm tapering to flurries and cold The second half of the week is partly cloudy and very cold Another snowstorm ends the week Middle Atlantic Coastal: Snow, rain, then snow in the south A midweek cold snap brings more snow to the south, but milder weather changes snow to rain by the weekend Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Cool and rainy to start the week By midweek a cold wave and snowstorm settle in, but the snow turns to heavy rain on the weekend

Lancaster Farming

OPINION

Happy Dairy Farms

Now is the time for all beautiful dairy farms to come to the aid of their industry. Of course, the dairy farms can't do much themselves. They need their owners to submit an application for the 1991 Dairy of Distinction program that has just been anounced this week.

If ever you could call a milk promotion program grass-roots, this it it. The beauty of local dairy farms is used to remind consumers where the good beverage of milk originates. And volunteers run the program to keep the cost at a very low level.

Judging takes place in the month of May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds and surroundings. A local district team of judges visits each farm and uses a score sheet to rate each farm. In the Pennsylvania program, in addition to this team of judges, the sanitarian for the farm's cooperative or dealer-handler is asked to be part of the judging process.

Winners receive a colorful, 18x24-inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed at the entrance to the farmstead. In addition, as in past years, an 11x14-inch color portrait of the farm will be given by Lancaster Farming to each winning farm in the Pennsylvania program.

Your dairy farm wants to help promote milk. Give it a chance. Send in your application today. Let your beautiful dairy farm show itself off to the milk drinkers of America in this year's Dairy of Distinction program. Your dairy farm will be glad you did.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Recognize Lime For Weed Control

You have never heard us recommend lime for weed control however, indirectly lime is important to obtain good herbicide weed control. Both research and farm experience has indicated that herbicides are not as effective in sour soil. So, for best control with chemicals, the soil test requirements must be satisfied.

Many poor weed control experiences have been reported on acid soils. A complete soil test will indicate the amount of lime needed. There are many other advantages to crop production in addition to better herbicide action.

To Evaluate Dairy Cows

It costs about $1,200 to raise a calf to two years of age; that's cash and non-cash costs. When milk prices fall, profit margins shrink and it takes longer for cows to recover their heifer raising costs, and to make their first nickel of profit in their lifetime.

The challenge to dairymen, according to Glenn Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent, is to keep their best cows in the herd longer for several reasons. Herd profits will increase. The more lactations you keep a cow, the more calves she'll have and the fewer replacements you'll need. That means you'll have excess heifers, which gives you the opportunity to cull selectively. With fewer heifers needed, you'll need less housing and purchased feeds, and you'll have more feeds available to feed to your lactating cows where they'll earn a greater return.

To Be Aware Of Milker's Knee

Everyone knows about tennis elbow, but who has ever heard of "Milker's Knee"? Dairy producers may have this form of degenerative arthritis without being aware of it. The condition occurs from the squatting bending and lifting that dairy farmers must do when attaching milkers to cows standing at floor level.

This wearing away of cartilage in the joints is most common among dairy farmers. The first sign is usually pain in the knees. Family and friends may notice that the person is becoming bowlegged. Other signs include frequent loss of balance; swelling, locking, stiffening, or giving out of the knees; and a grinding or snapping noise when bending.

A knee injury can develop into milker's knee but people who have never had a knee injury can be affected. Some farmers simply may have inherited this problem, especially if the family has a history of arthritis.

Dr. Dennis Murphy, Safety Specialist at Penn State, tells us that the most important prevention is to avoid squatting. Instead, kneel on one knee and wear knee pads. If you consult a physician at the first sign of trouble, you can probably keep the conditions from becoming worse.

To Keep Small Children Away From Machinery

The spring cropping season will be starting in another month. That means that a lot of farm machines will be put into operation and things will really be moving. Small children like to become a part of this action and ask to ride on machinery, or even operate some of the smaller tractors. It might take nerve to refuse them at times; however, for their own protection they should not become involved. Many serious accidents have happened because "Dad" or "Grandad" took them along.

Where there are small children all machinery operators should be especially careful of their exact locations. Farm machinery and small children do no mix. Remember, safety is no accident.

The Penn State Cooperative Extension is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHO IS #1?

FEBRUARY 10, 1991

Background Scripture: Matthew 20:17-28.

Devotional Reading: John 13:12-17

We live in a world where being "number one" is extremely important. That is how success is measured. As we climb the ladder of our vocation or avocation, we become more successful — at least as society reckons it. As Jesus reckons it, however, success may have nothing at all to do with society's measurements. As in almost everything else, the teachings of Jesus about being "number one" are radically different from what the world teaches us.

Once again, we Christians are somewhat schizoid on this score. We embrace Jesus' teachings on this matter, but we generally run our churches by the world's standards. Who is successful in the church? The clergyman who pastors the largest church or becomes bishop. The layman who wields the most influence and holds the highest positions of lay power.

I have no aspirations of ever being a bishop. Nevertheless, if tomorrow I were informed that I had just been elected bishop, I would certainly feel successful beyond my greatest expectations. The same would be true if I were offered "the largest pulpit in Methodism." That would be success, wouldn't it?

LORDING IT OVER

That standard of success has been with us a long time. It was this standard that led the mother of James and John of Zebedee to ask Jesus, "Command that these two sons of mine may sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your kingdom" (Matthew 20:21). What mother wouldn't want that for her sons? Jesus recognized this human desire: "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great men exercise authority over them." Having the power to "Lord it over" someone else has always been the world's measure of success.

Until Jesus came, saying: "It shall not be so among you; but whoever would be great among you must be your servant, and whosoever would be first among you must be your slaves; even as the Son of man came not to be served but to serve . . . " (20:26-28). Once again, Jesus recognizes the human desire to be great or first. He does not criticize James, John and their mother for wanting to be first in the kingdom of heaven next to Jesus. What he does do, however, is to give them a radically different way of being the greatest: by being a servant to others.

Once again, Jesus is looking to the long run, instead of the short run. In the short run, "lording it over" others seems to be the way to success. But, in the long run, that doesn't work or count for real success. What works in the long run is the willingness to serve, rather than to be served. Only in serving others can we truly be "number one."

WILLING TO SERVE

Writing on this is a very uncomfortable experience for me, for I know how likely I am to judge success, not by the standards of Jesus, but by those of the secular world. I believe with all my mind that a Christian must be willing to serve others as Christ did, but I don't very often live by those beliefs. If someone came to me today, not to tell me that I had been elected bishop, but to inform me that God had chosen for me the servant's role in a specific situation, could I feel that same degree of satisfaction? Could I view this as a superior means to becoming "number one."

Could you?

AMINOTEK™. FOR RECORD BREAKING PERFORMANCE.

NEW FROM MASTER MIX®
COMING TO A DEALER NEAR YOU.

AminoTek™ feeds are a blend of high-quality proteins which have complementary amino acid profiles. The AminoTek patented process is then applied to this blend, resulting in significantly increased levels of absorbable bypass protein and amino acids.

Central Soya research shows that cows fed AminoTek had a summit peak which was over 8 pounds higher than the peak of cows fed conventional protein feeds. Besides the obvious economic advantage which comes from increased milk production, other economic advantages may include improved milk composition and breeding performance.

See your Master Mix dealer for the AminoTek feed that's right for your herd.

In the Agri-Finance Department of Hamilton Bank we finance projects for active 4-H and FFA members

That's because we believe that helping preserve the family farm is one of the best ways to insure a better future for us all. And that involves working with our young people.

It's important to give them guidance, instill the proper values, and help them acquire the skills they need to be successful farmers.

The 4-H and FFA are working toward these goals. And so, we support their efforts. If you, or someone in your family needs money for a project, stop by and see us It just might help us all.

Melissa says:

"Lynks is sure making hay with Allegiance™."

Melissa's right. Allegiance™ alfalfa has proven itself on customer farms. It's an outstanding all around performer with broad disease resistance and excellent winter hardiness. See your local Lynks dealer and ask for Allegiance™.

Allegiance™
- Outstanding high performance alfalfa
- Broad disease resistance
- Very winterhardy
- Quick recovery after cutting for more yield

Performance may vary from season to season due to climatic conditions

CHICKEN FEED IS BIG MONEY

Don't Waste It!

For fifty years BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN has been carrying feed to chickens. And for fifty years poultry equipment companies, including Big Dutchman, have tried to find a better way. There isn't one...only other ways.

If you are a poultryman who is tiring of "pie in the sky" claims of extra cage rows per house and truckloads of feed savings... then look to Big Dutchman, the leader in poultry cage equipment systems. Take a "hands on" look at time-tested fully proven cage systems, to find out why producers are continually putting layers into new Big Dutchman installations. Then look to the really successful poultry farms world wide and you will find Big Dutchman Chain carrying the load.

On The Record

Dick Barth

PA DHIA General Mgr.

A lot was printed in this column last year about the reorganization of DHIA in Pennsylvania: why it was being done, what problems would be solved by it, when it would be completed, etc. Now that 1990 is behind us it seems useful to report the progress made last year on this issue.

At the start of 1990 there were four counties that had merged with the state association: Cameron, Elk, Clearfield and Bucks. On Jan. 1, 1990, Union County merged followed by Jefferson on April 1st and four counties, Mercer, Wyoming, Northampton and Clarion a month later on May 1st. On July 1st, four more counties merged: Lackawanna, Cambria, Montgomery and Venango.

The single largest group of county organizations merged on December 31st. That group was made up of Juniata, Snyder, Wayne, Mifflin, Indiana, McKean, Northumberland, Sullivan and York counties. One more county association, Lycoming, was collecting votes and will probably merge soon. That will bring the total to 24 counties, including Lycoming, that have merged with Pennsylvania DHIA. Those 24 represent about 20 percent of both the herds and cows enrolled in DHIA in the state, and about 25 percent of all DHIA supervisors.

The process of reorganizing is demanding for DHIA elected leaders and staff. To start off with, each county association presents a merger resolution and merger agreement to the local members to vote on. Preparing and discussing the resolution and agreement can take six trips by staff, or sometimes more, to attend meetings of the county board and members.

In order for the merger to go forward, a simple majority, or 51 percent, of all the members in a county association must vote yes to merge. And collecting that many votes can be a difficult task. Just ask the Berks Co. directors. They offered a merger resolution to their members twice last year and failed to get enough votes to carry a decision either way. The members who voted were in favor of merging by a 2 to 1 margin, but the total fell just a few votes short of a simple majority.

The directors and members of the 24 counties who have led the way on reorganization deserve credit. They were willing to take risks and help us learn about this process as we went along. And thanks to their help, we have a smoother merger process for those coming along later.

We still have 34 local associations to merge by October 1, 1992. That's more than one a month, almost two, between now and then. And that's a lot of work and travel. If your county hasn't started to make merger plans yet, you should think seriously about getting it under way so there will be no last minute crunch next year. If you need someone to talk to about it, call me, or Jim Garrity at 800-344-8378. We'll be glad to talk with you.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

A luncheon is set from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

From 1:45 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., two programs are offered.

Dr. Raymond Hunter, president of Masstock Southern Holdings Inc., of Montezuma, Georgia, is to speak on "Dairy Farming Philosophies at Masstock."

Also, Dr. Bryan Johnson, associate director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, at the University of Maryland System, in College Park, Md., is to provide an update on robotic milking system that was announced this time last year.

The ladies program is scheduled from 10:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. and consists of craft demonstrations by Eva Martin, of Smithsburg; Bonnie Remsberg, of Middletown; and Gemini Flowers, in West Friendship.

The junior program ;includes tours from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. of the Central Maryland Research and Educational Center in Ellicott City to get an update on the robotic milking system. There is also a tour of Maple Lawn Farm, in Fulton. Lunch is provided with the farm tour.

From 1:45 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. the Maryland Junior Holstein Association members are to hold their annual business meeting. The program included with the meeting includes a cattle photography workshop by Susan Kelly of Agri-Graphics, and an advertising workshop held by Lois Remsburg Skeen, the editor of Southeastern Holstein News.

At 6 p.m. a social hour is planned.

From 7 p.m. to 9:15 p.m., is to be the convention banquet with Frank Walbert acting as toastmaster.

The banquet program includes an awards presentation, an auction of specialty items and a talk by Horace Backus of Mexico, N.Y. who will discuss "Dunloggin Revisited."

From 9:30 p.m. to midnight a dance is scheduled with music provided by a disc jockey.

On Saturday at 11 a.m., at the Howard County Fairgroungs, in West Friendship, the Maryland Holstein Association Convention Sale is to start.

RECORD RAINFALL AND THE SEED COMPANY THAT HAD FARMERS COVERED.

It was mid-June. Only a fraction of the corn acres in Steve Florer's sales territory had been planted. And it was raining again.

The Pioneer sales rep knew what to do. He wanted shorter-season hybrids on hand before his customers needed them, because he figured any dry spells wouldn't last long. So Steve made some phone calls, and another truckload of hybrids was on the way.

New seed arrived at 7 a.m. the next day, but the rain didn't let up. So once again, Steve and agronomist Dan Bailey studied the Pioneer® hybrid profiles to find even shorter-season alternatives for an area that usually plants 120-day corn. Then they talked with customers about switching maturities and balancing their yield goals with the risks of an early frost.

In the end, Pioneer hybrids with a 90-day maturity were brought in and planted on July 10 — about 50 days later than usual. And they were just what some farmers needed to weather the storm.

OUR PLEDGE

We pledge to provide products and services to increase the efficiency and profitability of America's farmers. We will continue breeding new hybrids with high yield potential — and with a balance of other key traits that give you the greatest potential for a successful crop. And that means more Earning Power for you. As a valued business partner, you have our commitment to delivering quality products and services. Our goal is your satisfaction.

Somerset Farmers Hear About Benefits of PEA

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

BERLIN (Somerset Co.) — The questions of how far milk prices will drop and what can be done about it were addressed at a meeting held by the Berlin Brothersvalley Young Farmers in the local high school cafeteria.

Many dairy farmers, and wives, as well, gathered to hear information presented by the featured speaker, Kenneth Stromski, Media, Ohio. He is a public relations manager from the Producers Equalization Agency (PEA).

A rangy man, Stromski paced during his fast-moving and very witty talk. Once a dairyman himself, with a very successful herd of cattle, he quipped, "I found a easier way to get milk. I stop at one of those places that have the lights on."

Over and over he referred to the M & W (Minnesota and Wisconsin Series), saying that here is where the national milk prices are set. For cheese, it is the Green Bay Cheese Exchange. Western producers can produce milk at lower costs because of a warmer climate, unlike their eastern counterparts who have the additional overhead costs of providing both feed and shelter for their animals at least part of the year.

"You got a floor," said Stromski, "but only on the gross, not on the net. It used to be called a 'safety net,'" he said, "Now, it's called 'layin' on the floor,' you gotta look up to see it," he said regarding the present low prices farmers are dealing with.

The purpose of the meeting was to interest dairy farmers in banding together and as a group demand higher prices for their milk.

Lowell Friedline, a director in the PEA and a Somerset County farmer, was recently quoted as saying that the December final milk check and the federal order milk price dropped to $11.33 per cwt. He said this figure is a drop of $4.16 from last year, adding that, based on predictions by the USDA in the December issue of Hoard's Dairyman, the blend price in 1991 could average below $12 per cwt.

At the meeting, Friedline assured the group that all contracts by individual farmers to join the PEA would be confidential.

The success of the group depends on having at least 90 percent of the local farmers joining by contract. There would be no dues to pay and the dairy farmers control the agency. Premiums are paid in the third quarter milk check.

Also present, to update farmers on 1991 USDA programs, was Spencer Williams, executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Programs (ASCS).

Equipment Manufacturers Project

veyed for this report predict a 4.7 percent decrease in retail unit sales of farm tractors in 1991 from 1990, with self-propelled combines up by 2.0 percent. Dollar volume for both field machinery and farmstead equipment is expected to continue at 1990 levels.

The State of the Industry projections represent the medians of the range of survey responses by 33 major farm field machinery producers and 27 major manufacturers of farmstead equipment. Equipment Manufacturers Institute member companies were asked to respond only to questions pertaining to products they manufacture or sell, and to make predictions on an industry-wide basis, rather than just for their company.

The companies that participate in the survey manufacture more than 90 percent of the field machinery and farmstead equipment sold in the U.S. They are all member of the Institute, the major industrial trade association serving manufacturers of agricultural, construction, forestry, materials handling, and utility equipment.

In 1990, EMI member manufacturers sold 108,350 tractors, 1.7 percent more than 1989's total sales, according to the EMI "Flash" monthly statistical report released January 12, 1990. This was slightly less than the industry had expected to sell based upon their predictions in the State of the Industry report released in January of 1990.

Sales of smaller tractors, the "under 40 hp" category, continued a downward trend in 1990 but still accounted for about 39 percent of total tractor sales. EMI member companies surveyed for the 1990 State of the Industry report expected sales in the "under 40 hp" category to remain constant with 1989 but instead saw the figure drop 10 percent. They now predict a similar drop for 1991.

FARM WHEEL TRACTORS

In 1990, according to the "Flash" report, "100 hp and over" two-wheel drive tractors had an 10.7 percent increase in unit sales for a total of 22,797. Sales in this same category for 1991 are expected to be at the 23,020 level.

Unit sales of 80,451 in the "below 100 horsepower" two-wheel drive tractor categories in 1990, are forecast to slide to 76,740, for a decrease of 4.6 percent, in 1991.

A drop in sales of four-wheel drive tractors of 11 percent from the 1990 "Flash" report figure of 5,102 units to 4,541 units in 1991, is predicted by member companies in the State of the Industry report.

GRAIN HARVESTING EQUIPMENT

Sales of self-propelled combines continued their upward trend started in 1989, according to the "Flash" report, with 10,432 units sold in 1990, 14 percent above 1989. Manufacturers predict unit sales will show a continuing increase of 2.0 percent in 1991, and a further expansion to 10,854 units in 1992.

Sales of Farm Loaders, a new reporting category in this year's State of the Industry report, are expected to be less in 1991 than they were last year, then increasing slightly in 1991.

TILLAGE EQUIPMENT

Tillage equipment sales, when final figures are available for 1990, are expected to show some increases over 1989, but manufacturers of field cultivators, disk harrows and chisel plows forecast no increases for 1991. Disk harrow sales are predicted to decrease by one percent in 1991. Sales of field cultivators and chisel plows are forecasted to remain flat.

HAY AND FORAGE EQUIPMENT

The market for rectangular balers is expected to drop by 5.0 percent in 1991, according to the State of the Industry report. Round baler sales are expected to remain flat this year.

Forage harvester unit sales are forecast to decrease by 1.5 percent in 1991, according to the State of the Industry report.

Manufacturers' unit sales of mower-conditioners in 1991 are forecast to go down 2.5 percent. Sales of self-propelled windrowers are expected to decrease 10 percent this year.

Manure spreader sales will be off by 1.5 percent in 1991, but increase slightly in 1992.

FARMSTEAD EQUIPMENT

Dairy and beef mechanization equipment sales are forecast to show no change in 1991 over 1990, with a slight increase seen for the following year by the reporters in the EMI State of the Industry. Hog mechanization equipment sales are expected to see no gain until 1992. Milking machine sales are forecast to show a 2.5 percent decrease from last year before gaining 5.5 percent in 1992, according to the manufacturers.

EMI, the national trade association and coordinator for the industry survey, provides to manufacturers services in such areas as engineering, legislative and government relations, product liability, public relations, safety and statistics.

Copies of the 1991 State of the Industry report and subscription forms for the monthly "Flash" reports are available from the Equipment Manufacturers Institute, 10 South Riverside Plaza, Chicago, Illinois 60606-3710.

European Journalists Visit United States

WASHINGTON D.C.—Nine central European environmental journalists visited Lancaster County on their way to California this week. The journalists want to study evnironmental reporting techniques and management strategies in the United States through a two-month fellowship program coordinated by the National Safety Council's Environmental Health Center.

Lamonte Garber, Chesapeake Bay Foundation's agricultural specialist, said the visit to several Amish farms and several farms in the Quarryville area was very enlightening to the visitors. The journalists were very interested to see how farmers here are addressing environmental problems and what they saw here was very different.

For example, Bill Aaron, Quarryville, has a much larger dairy and poultry operation than any the European journalists had ever seen. While they may have collective farms, their farms are not nearly so large.

conservation terraces are installed, the visitors had never seen or heard of this common conservation practice. Terraces are non-existent in their countries.

Also, the carousel milking unit was very intriguing to the visitors.

The journalists come from countries where governments have given journalists much more freedon of the press. And these writers consider it their responsibility to raise the level of the public's environmental knowledge. Acid rain, air pollution from toxic chemicals and ground water contimination are all problems they face. In addition, their economies are in shambles. So they need all the help they can get to present new ideas. It was important for the journalists to see that their problems were also problems we face also.

The project is funded by the German Marshall Fund. And the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, along with the Lancaster County Conservation District, helped host the local stop for the visitors.

"The challenges these countries face in reversing decades of environmental neglect is daunting," saud Bud Ward, executive director of the National Safety Council's Environmental Health Center. "As in other free societies, the press will play a critical role in these countries' overcoming their legacy of pollution."

This program is one of the earliest projects in the United States for helping Central European journalists examine and expand their roles at a time of historic social, economic, and political change. Reporters in some parts of Central Europe are now openly writing on pollution problems which just a year ago had in effect been state secrets.

The "Journalists Helping Journalists" program is designed to benefit all reporters involved in the project. Central Europe journalists will learn U.S. reporters' experiences in covering pollution control, waste management, and related environmental issues. U.S. print and broadcast journalists will gain broader perspectives on environmental issues in other parts of the world by working with their European counterparts.

On January 20, the European reporters will arrive in Washington, D.C., where they will spend two weeks in briefings and meeting with environmental managers, policy makers, citizen activists, legislators, government regulators and scholars.

Wendall Landis Is Shepherd of the Year

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — A "really surprised" Wendall Landis, 15, Manheim was honored with the prestigious 1990 Shepherd of the Year Award at the Lancaster Co. 4-H livestock banquet Thursday night.

Wendall, who raises about 40 sheep and is a member of the Lancaster Woolies Club, is a 6-year member of 4-H. A freshman at Lancaster Mennonite High School, Wendall participated on the Livestock Judging Team this year. He also won several awards, including champion breeding ewe at Elizabethtown, champion breeding sheep at Manheim, and placed second and third place in the Hampshire ewe lamb division at the Harrisburg Farm Show.

Kera Allen, 9, Mastersonville, won the Novice Shepherd Award. Kera raises about eight sheep (one Dorset, three Cheviots, and four Suffolks) and several horses, and has been showing since she was 3 years old. She was "completely surprised and kind of embarrassed" when her name was announced, but has really enjoyed showing at several area fairs, including Elizabethtown and Manheim. In addition, Sean Kopp was honored with the Red Rose 4-H Award.

Chet Hughes, Lancaster 4-H adviser and a coach of the Livestock Judging and Meats Judging teams, spoke to more than 200 who attended the event.

"Our Lancaster County 4-H Program is successful because of the over 500 dedicated leaders who work with and encourage over 4,000 members of strong, active families and very supportive parents," he said.

Hughes thanked those who supported 4-H with purchases of livestock projects, those who sponsored awards, and those who contributed by opening "your farms, homes, and businesses to host our meetings, educate our members, and train our judging teams."

The county 4-H program involves 25 leaders, 165 club members, and more than 800 head of livestock. At the 1991 Pennsylvania Farm Show, said Hughes, 48 of the members (one-third of the total) "competed in junior livestock shows and did very well!"

Without the champions, the steers at this year's Farm Show averaged $.96, a record, according to Hughes. "This was our first attempt at selling 4-H steers at our local fairs and we appreciate the support from our buyers."

Proposed State Ag Budget Receives Critical Review From Assembly

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state agriculture budget is a "mixed bag" at best, according to reviews from the chairs of the General Assembly's agriculture and rural affairs committees.

However, according to state agriculture department Press Secretary Gene Schenck, "We can maintain our programs with what we are getting.

"We're convinced we can continue to maintain. We think we are doing a good job for the farmers and consumers of Pennsylvania," Schenck said.

"We also realize that every department has to make some sacrifices and that no area can be overlooked when it comes to improving efficiencies, if Pennsylvania if going to deal with a very serious national economic situation."

On Wednesday, Gov. Robert Casey unvieled a $24.663 billion state budget proposal, which includes income generated from a proposed $13.12 billion general fund budget.

General funds are those raised primarily through taxes. In order to create $13.12 billion in general funds, taxes need to be increased by about $1.695 billion.

Other portions of the total state budget are to come from $5.381 billion in federal funds, $1.577 billion in motor license funds and about $4.6 billion in other funds.

The general fund increase is to come in the form of increased taxes, called "proposed revenue changes" from several sources, but not from income taxes.

Specifically, the increases are to come from a 2 percent increase in corporate net income tax; a 1 mil increase in capital stock and franchise taxes; a gross receipts tax; public utility realty tax, and bank shares tax; a sales tax on cable television and interstate telephone calls and on restaurant sales of liquor; a large cigarette tax; a variety of fee increases and increased tax enforcenment and collection.

The total proposed budget for the state department of agriculture, including federal funding and hauling fees, is $69.128 million.

According to his analysis of the budget, Steve Crawford, executive director of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee and spokesman for Rep. Kenneth Cole, called the governor's proposal, "a mixed bag."

Overall, however, Crawford said, "It's a start, and every budget proposal is just that, it's a start. And now it's up to the legislature to put its fingerprints on the budget."

He predicted, "It's going to be an interesting spring and it might be a long, hot summer."

Crawford listed a number of problems with the budget, ranging from funding of the Milk Marketing Board to agriculture research at universities and New Bolton Center.

Shelia Miller, executive director for the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs committee and spokesperson for Sen. Edward Helfrick, said that she agrees wit the problems Crawford cites, but that there a couple of other problems within the budget.

Crawford, however, who was state deputy secretary of agriculture until January, said he sees both good and bad in the budget proposal.

"There are some positive signs in the budget — particularly given the atmosphere under which we're operating these days — and some things that cause some concern," Crawford said.

"On the positive side, I was glad to see that under the general operations budget of the department of agriculture, they actually received an increase. The governor pointed out in his speech that under his administration, the general fund appropriations to agriculture have increased 25 percent."

Among the other "positive side" aspects of the proposal, Crawford said, "There was no change in the appropriation for ag research. That remains at $2.5 million. So that was protected. That line item does end up at Penn State, Rodale, and Delaware University," he said.

"The funding for the animal health commission was $1.624 million and it is (again) this year.

"The PennAg fund appropriation is maintained at $1 million. PennAg is a program that provides low interest loans to small agribusinesses that process Pennsylvania products," Crawford said.

Penn State University's budget for its extension services remains at $19,729,000.

But there is a down side, according to the spokesman for the Democrat-ruled House committee.

"On the negative side, the payments to Pennsylvania fairs was reduced from $3.75 million to $2.95 million.

"The difference there is, money for capital construction grants. If a fair wants to put up a pole barn, they could apply to the deparment for capital construction reimbursement," Crawford said. "There had been quite a backlog of those (requests) dating back to 1987, and the department was able, because of increased appropriations over the last few years, to eliminate that backlog."

Other negative aspects, according to Crawford, include, "The funding for agriculture promotion. The proposal would reduce that from $495,000 to $300,000. That one concerns me.

"What they would probably do — in the event it would stay where it is — would be to reduce the domestic promotion programs they have, but continue the export programs they have because it is a critical program that is working very well."

According to Miller, The $195,000 cut from agriculture promotion really hurts, because, "He eliminated, on a line item, promotion funds for one of Pennsylvania's top commodities — mushrooms. He's totally eliminated the funding of $100,000 from promoting Pennsylvania mushrooms."

Also getting a "mixed bag" review from Crawford, "There had been $225,000 for the swine psuedo rabies program. That money has not been continued, but it is important to note that the department has received authority to continue last year's appropriation, which is real important because they still have that money. It's carryover."

Getting away from the agriculture department's outlook, the state Milk Marketing Board is again to be cut by $600,000, under the proposal.

Because the state's current budget is failing, Casey's administration created a "hit list" to kill spending and attempt to negate the anticipated deficit of up to $1 billion.

The Milk Marketing Board, which regulates the state's dairy industry was put on the "hit list," and some have projected that the agency would not be able to function past spring.

"On the Milk Marketing Board side, they reduced it by about $600,000 again," Crawford said. "(Casey) said the $600,000 reduced support is due to the increased milk marketing fund revenues, with the objective of self-sufficieny for that agency."

(Editor: The "increased milk marketing fund revenues" were created by self-imposed fee increases the dairy industry requested and got when they were seeking to increase state support from $900,000 to more than $1 million. Since then, Casey eliminated that state support. In effect, under Casey's plan, the MMB would become an agency similar to the state's game commission or fish commission, which always have been autonomously supported.)

"While that's a worthy goal," Crawford said, "I would be concerned about how they are attempting to do that, and the sudden way in which they are attempting to do it."

However, Crawford said that in respect to farmers being citizens and taxpayers too, "There is good news . . . the governor said he is not going to raise personal income tax, he is not going to raise sales taxes and perhaps more importantly, he is not going to raise the gas tax."

However, Crawford did note possible significant cuts to the New Bolton Research Center:

- The School of Veterinary Medicine is to go from $3.924 million to $1.502 million.
- Food and animal clinics are to be reduced from $2.113 million to $809,000.
- The Center for animal health and productivity went from $1.29 million to $494,000.

Miller said the Senate, "Started dialogue with the veterinary school immediately on Wednesday."

According to Miller, the reaction is that with the school getting 54 percent of what it got last year, "Basically it is going to force people to go to southern schools for veterinary medicine, by taking away funds from what is recognized as one of the best vet schools in the nation.

"We rely on the school for good veterinarians, but we also rely on the center to send very sick animals there, knowing that they have the best technology. These are high-priced cattle in Pennsylvania and most local veterinarians can not afford the same types of facilities.

How to limit crop risks

TRY THESE DOEBLER'S HYBRIDS

by Willard Jones

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager, taking the conservative approach.

I'm conservative when it comes to investing money. Or buying seed corn.

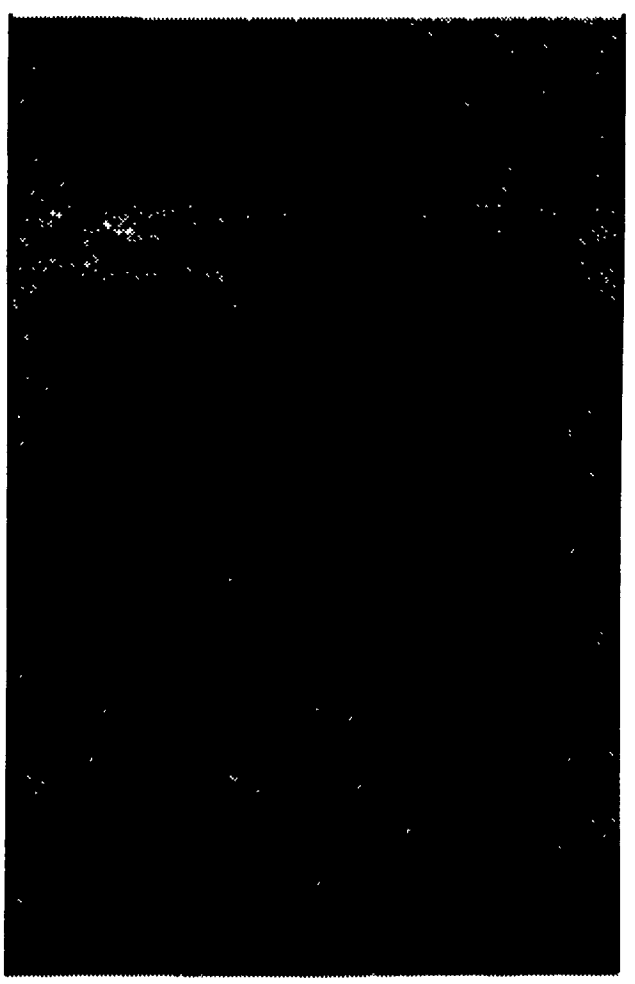
So I buy certificates of deposit. And I think real estate for a long term investment. It's a matter of limiting my risk.

Same principle holds for seed corn. Best low risk buys, in my mind, are hybrids that always finish among the leaders. In wet weather or dry. Hot weather or cold. On deep or shallow soils.

Like Doebler's Extra Performance hybrids with mile long printouts of test results made right here in the East.

And never under estimate old favorites like Doebler 75X. That old super champ is driving the competition crazy.

Here are my picks. Mostly established stars.



Low risk buys for 1991

DOEBLER 84XP, 118 days. Solid 200.3 bu. in New Jersey strip test last year, and 186.4 bu. average for top ten. Excellent standup and disease resistance.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. Pa's all time corn champ still shelling big. 1990 best: 218.5 bu. at Stockton, N.J. Top ten average, 194.9 bu. Think silage, too.

DOEBLER 66XP, 103 days. Off and running with 1990 bests of 193.2 bushels corn and 27.94 tons silage. 17.5 bu. better than 65X in our trials. Super standup. Super vigor.

DOEBLER 57XP, 97 days. Combine this baby. Shelled a most respectable 179.7 bu. last fall at New Holland, Pa. Top ten average, 164.3. Sturdy. Super oomph.

DOEBLER 45XP, 90 days. This super single sizzles. 1990 bests of 204.5 bushels corn and 20.30 tons silage. 165.25 bu. average in Cornell's 1989 trials. Quick drydown.

Alternative Crops Provide Flexibility

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GUTHRIESVILLE (Chester Co.) — Tight times for farmers, in addition to falling prices for milk and other farm commodities, are making farmers wonder: Could money be made from alternative cropping?

"There's a lot of interest in alternative crops," said Dr. Jayson K. Harper, Penn State crop specialist. Harper spoke to about 100 farmers at the Chester County Crops Day last week.

For farmers with portions of their farm that are difficult to maintain, or for those who may be considering a different income source, perhaps alternative crops may provide some answers.

These crops could help "diversify our crop mix, in terms of spreading out our harvest times, our planting times, and the labor requirements that we have,' said Harper.

Farmers may consider alternative crops, according to Dr. Jayson K. Harper, Penn State crop specialist, who spoke last week at the Chester Co. Crops Day.

Farmers have advantage

Harper said that farmers in Pennsylvania have an advantage. "We're closer to a lot of our markets. And there are some specialty grain crops that this proximity to market would really benefit us."

Harper outlined some of the crops that could be planted here. Chief among these was grain sorghum, which could be used as a feed grain or a silage.

Grain sorghum requires growing conditions much like corn, but is more drought tolerant than corn. The crop is more tolerant to wet soils as well as flooding. It requires less fertilizer than corn, a soil pH of 6.0-6.5, and is harvested like corn (combine at 20 percent to 25 percent moisture). The yield expectancy is 100 bushels/acre.

For farmers with marginal ground, the crop may do some real good. The cost of production comes to about $166/acre, about $35 an acre less than corn. The breakeven price is $1.66/bushel, and currently, price for grain sorghum is about $2.30/bushel.

Other crops

Other crops that farmers may consider planting include:

• Buckwheat. This crop can be used as a food crop, feed crop, and makes for a good honey crop (it provides a good nectar source). It also suppresses various weeds, including quackgrass and works as a good green manure. It can grow in a wide variety of soils, and grows well on infertal and poorly drained soils. Yields can be variable, from 500-2,000 pounds/acre. The cost at harvest is $64/acre, but doesn't require fertilizer or herbicides. Breakeven yield is 635 pounds/acre.

• Canola. It is used as a high-quality cooking oil and as a livestock ration or cut for a forage crop. It can grow in cool climates and grows best on well-drained soil. It is planted like winter wheat (fall or spring seeding) and requires 135 pounds of nitrogen for fall and 100 pounds nitrogen for spring. Nutrient requirements are similar to wheat. Combining is at 10 percent moisture. Yield is variable, anywhere from 150 to 2,500 pounds/acre. Price and yield variability is a problem. Breakeven yield is 34 bushels/acre at $4.22/bushel. The nearest markets are Ohio and Kentucky.

• Sunflowers. An oil and food crop. Can be used as bird seed or cattle feed, and is profitable in niche markets and forage crop. Has a long growing season (100-110 days). Sunflowers grow well on sand and clay soil. The soil pH range should be 6.0-7.2 and there may be some bird pest problems. The crop is combined at 15 percent moisture but requires substantial drying. Yield is 2,000 pounds/acre, at a cost of $145/acre ($19 more than soybeans). Breakeven price is 1,500 pounds/acre or 7 cents/pound.

• Triticale. This is a rye and wheat cross and used as a feed grain (forage and some food crop). The yield is lower than wheat, but the good aspect is that it provides high quality straw. Average yield is 59 bushels/acre, though the yield in Pennsylvania is about 50 bushels/acre. Only good right now as a straw source.

At the Chester Co. Crops Day, Bill Beam, right, picked up first place in the Pennsylvania Five-Acre Corn Club for Chester Co. Presenting the award is Walter Wurster, Chester Co. dairy agent.

• Spelt. This is a seed grain like oats. Requires fall seeding and is more winder hardey than winter wheat. It grows on a variety of soils, including poorly drained, low fertility soil. The pH requirement is 6.0. There are no pesticides than can be used for it, except cultural and mechanical. Harvest is at 14 percent moisture. Cost is $148/acre ($2 less than oats). Breakeven price is $2.75/bushel and the value in Pennsylvania is now $2.30/bushel. Breakeven yield is 107 bushels/acre, but Pennsylvania growing conditions provide about 90 bushels/acre.

• Forage sorghum. Used as a silage crop. Can be used on droughty soils. Grows from 6 to 12 feet tall. It is fertilized like grain sorghum. It requires a soil pH of 6.0. Cost is $190/acre, at a breakeven 9.4 ton/acre yield. Breakeven price is $9.06/ton.

"One of the reasons we've had a lot of interest in altnative crops is because of the some of the changes we've seen in the 1990 Farm Bill," said Harper. "The bill provides a lort of flexibility for alternative crops."

But farmers were cautioned to give planting alternative crops a lot of thought. Farmers should consider planting, harvesting, fertility, and overall crop management before considering growing an alternative crop.

"One of the biggest things we have to worry about is where is that market?" he said.

No USDA standards

Harper also said that many of the minor crops do not have official USDA grading standards.

Loan Criteria Given At Bank Seminar

BLUE BALL (Lancaster Co.)—Sometimes when a bank says 'no,' it may be the best answer," said Alan Strock, Extension Service. "It may just keep a young person out of debt he could not afford."

Strock, along with Lewis Gable, Blue Ball National Bank president, and Don Robinson, adult education instructor, served on a panel at the eighth annual ag seminar held Wednesday at the fire hall. Questions covered the subject of why a farm loan may be approved or rejected.

"The key question to answer when you approve a loan is, 'Can it be paid back--does it make sense?'" Gable said. "The four C's of credit includes character, credit, capacity and collateral."

Does the customer have the moral desire to pay back the loan? If he does, that's character.

Credit needs to be established over the years.

Capacity is cash flow generated, not only to pay back the loan, but also to keep the operation going and keep feeding the family.

Collateral is that something you have as a secondary source of repayment if all else fails. With new regulations, banks cannot depend as much on collateral when making a loan as they were able to do in earlier years.

To obtain a loan, you need records. And Strock contended that you need records to be successful. "The most successful farmers I know keep their own records," Strock said. "They know where their cash is coming from and what the feed bill is each month. You must document your past successes and you must prove it to the banker."

Tax returns, balance sheets, net worth and cash flow statements are all able to prove your net worth. You also need to prove from where the money. Was it profit from the operation or money from a sale or source outside the cash generating capacity of the farming operation?

If you are to make future projections or decide if you can afford the equipment or expansion, you need to know the cost of production. Gable said the bank needs to know the bottom line, to satisfy the bank directors and shareholders. In addition, with all the news of failures, bank regulators have becvome increasingly tough.

"We can't just say Amos is a great guy and he always pays his interest," Gable said. "That's not good enough today. We must have a good financial statement, a true balance sheet.

Gable also said that to co-sign for a loan is serious business. "If you co-sign, you have the responsibility to pay if the signer doens't pay the loan," Gable said. "It needs to be money you can afford to lose if necessary."

Strock urged farmers to put their family loans in writing. "Private debt is never for sure," Strock said. "If there is a death, you may need to pay back the loan at the worst time. In addition, you need to charge lawful interest, or the IRS will make you pay taxes as though you did receive the interest."

One of the new laws that makes bankers cautious deals with environmental issues. If an enviromental clean-up problem occurs and the farmer walks away and the bank assumes the mortgage, the bank becomes responsible for the costs that may be imposed. This can be big bucks and is a real risk for the bank.

As for Blue Ball National's financial condition, Gable said the local bank keeps its money in the community and does not need to go to the international markets where the problems have occurred. "Fortunately, Blue Ball National Bank is a very solid bank," Gable said.

Robinson served as moderator for the panel. Other speakers included Norman Hahn, board chairman, Nevin Greiner, conservationist, Jay Irwin, county agent, H. Lewis Moore, Penn State and Melvin Pankuck, president.

Lunch was served to 150 farmers and wives.

43 to 46.75% protein soybeans, 29% protein hay, 10 to 11% or more protein corn, 250 to 300 bu. corn per acre. Bean yield up to 83 bu. per acre.
We have these 46.75% protein beans cleaned to sell for seed. High producing cows give high producing daughters. Likewise high protein beans produce high protein beans, obviously.
Our natural fertilizer contains over 100 minerals and trace elements, therefore producing very rich feed. With all the above mentioned protein and a full spectrum of minerals, you need not buy extra protein, and very little minerals, and home grown is better protein. And it also produces healthy cows and heifers, reducing your drug and vet bill. This is the answer to low milk prices. Now you do not have to cry the blues after all.
OUR FERTILIZER COMPANY OFFERS $12 PER BU. FOR WHITE SOYBEANS IF THEY PASS THE NON-TOXIC TEST.
There is a big demand coming up for soy foods because it gives more nutrition per dollar and it is healthier than meat. Some factories need huge quantities and their demand is increasing because our organically grown beans make better quality food products. The Japs are putting up a large factory in Indonesia which will also increase demand.
Why grow surplus corn at hardly any profit (the chemical way) when there is a big demand for $12 beans? However our company pays $3.00 per bu. for non toxic corn. Crops are usually toxic-free the first year when our wonderful nutri-carb is used early in the season. Order the seed beans early. The supply is limited.

Dairy Bowl Teams

Karen Lentz (David's sister), captain, Steve Bollinger (Angie's brother), Kathy Habecker, Palmyra, and Andy Bicksler.

Michael Kunkle, of Jonestown, is coach for both the senior and junior dairy bowl teams. He is also helped in coaching duties by Sue Werner, Jonestown, and Nelson Bomgardner, North Annville.

Kunkle is an inseminator for Sire Power. He lives on his family's farm, where they raise dairy replacement heifers, both registered Holsteins and Brown Swiss.

According to Kunkle, his own experiences with dairy bowl competitions led to helping out as a coach.

"I was in dairy bowl. What I really liked is it taught me a lot about the dairy industry," Kunkle said. "When you're not eligible to participate anymore you hate to lose contact. I didn't want to get completely away from it."

Kunkle, Werner and Bomgardner worked with four teams this past year — two senior teams and two junior teams.

The coaches and members would meet at each other's house to practice, switching locations so as to keep travel distances as equitable as possible.

With the three coaches and the four teams, each practice session would consist of several different activity and instruction areas and the teams would rotate so that each team got equal time and information.

The strategy and volunteer efforts seemed to have paid off.

"I was very proud of them," Kunkle said. "They put in a lot of hard work and I guess when they won it made it seem all worth while."

Kunkle added that he felt that the loss in the nationals last year in Charleston, S.C., provided motivation to win.

"I think the biggest thing was to go back and win the Pennsylvania contest and get another chance to prove themselves. They wanted another chance at nationals and they knew to get that chance they had to win Pennsylvania again," Kunkle said.

The dairy bowl contest is a double-elimination, question and answer event with team and individual efforts and a speed round involved.

As coach of both junior and senior teams, the duo wins provide a sense of reward to Kunkle and the others who volunteer time to help.

"It feels pretty good," Kunkle said. "I think it shows the dedication of the junior members. And they knew all the time that this is what they wanted to do. I told them that, if this was to be, they would have to work at it. They would have to study — put in hours of study and research — and it was through the hours of dedication that they were able to do that."

The top junior division dairy bowl team in the state for 1991 consists of, from the left, Kathy Habecker, Andrew Bicksler, Karen Lentz, Steven Bollinger and coach Mike Kunkle.

This is the fifth year that Lebanon County has fielded a team. Kunkle was on for three years.

At this year's state competition, there were 17 junior teams and 14 senior teams.

"That isn't a good indication of counties involved, Kunkle said. Lebanon has two senior teams and two junior teams. Some other counties also field several teams.

"But popularity of the competition is catching. There were more (teams) this year than in the past."

The experience behind the Lebanon senior team and the disapointment of losing at the nationals last year changed the way the team has been practicing.

"Last year at the nationals they anticipated harder questions so thy were more tenetative (in responding).

"One thing that we did differently this year, this year we've been practicing more with buzzers. They've been practicing for speed and trying to get the 'buzz-in' quicker, instead of waiting until the question was over."

Lentz said that last year's nationals taught them well.

"When you go into something new, you don't know what to expect. Now that we were already there, we know the contests aren't very different. Being in the national, we know what to expect.

The problem last year was not knowing, Lentz said.

"We didn't really know what kind of questioning format they ask down there (South Carolina)," he said explaining that they were all prepared for some very demanding questions.

But instead . . .

"They were asking something really easy, like "what is the name for a mature bovine male. We were studying the latest developments in the industry and we weren't prepared for something that easy."

Lentz and Bollinger are both dairy science students at Penn State University. They don't have time to travel to Lebanon to attend every or many of the team practices.

"I left them on their own," Kunkle said. "When they were home they would come to practice. They took it upon their own to devote time at college to practice.

"The one thing they (Lentz and Bollinger) don't have is the buzzer. We'll soon start practicing one night a week and keep up on research," Kunkle said.

Lentz, said a win at the national may come, but not without continued dedication.

"We got a lot of work to do. I think we were pretty well prepared for the state contest. We had a little bit of luck on ourside. For our chances at the national, we're going to work hard at it and hopefully we can bring back a national champion to Pennsylvania."

The last time Pennsylvania had a national champion was in 1989, when a team from Lancaster County won the senior division and a team from Perry County won the junior division.

"As captain, I feel we all worked hard and we all have a balanced team. A captain is nothing without the other people on the team."

He said that he and Angie Bollinger do get together at college to prepare for the dairy bowl, "Whenever there's a spare moment and that's not very often."

But there are some benefits to being a dairy student and being involved with dairy bowl.

"We just don't memorize (the answers). It's great that we won, but it's valuable because we learn so many things from it. Some things we learn from dairy bowl apply here. Sometimes a professor up here goes over some material and I think, 'I already know that,' but that doesn't happen too often," Lentz said.

And even though Bollinger doesn't have the "at-the-wheel" experience of a national competition, she does have a strong background with dairy bowl competitions.

For two years she had helped to put on the dairy bowl contest.

PJHA Reconizes Excellent Breeders

READING (Berks Co.) — The Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association recognized Junior members who have bred and owned a cow that scored excellent. The criteria for receiving a Breeder of Excellent cow awards are as follows: 1. Animal must be bred and owned by the Junior Member. 2. Animal must be scored excellent under your ownership. 3. Animal must be alive the year the Application is made. 4. The animal will only qualify once for the Award. 5. A photo copy of the Registration paper must accompany the entry.

Juniors were recognized at the Junior Holstein Convention at the Sheraton Inn, Reading for breeding and owning an excellent cow.

They included: Bridgette Boyer, York, York County for Sunnybend Sexy Icicle B Star-EX-90; Adam Sonnen, Richland, Lebanon County for Sonnen-Acres Lucream EX-90; Rebecca Sonnen, Richland, Lebanon County for Sonnen-Acres Saul Cherish EX-90; Jeffrey Davis, Leesport, Berks County for Daview Pete Ginger EX-90.

Lentz said, "She joked that she is getting to see both sides — she worked on one side and now is competing on the other.

Also, Lentz said that, "Taking some classes up here really helped. It kind of gave us an advantage."

Senior teammember and Lebanon County Dairy Princess Terry Hill, 18, said the win is "exciting."

Hill works full time on the 120-acre family dairy farm, milking the 55-cow herd evenings, feeding calves in morning and evening, and keeping the breeding records and registering calves. Also, "Mom and I are in a joint effort in picking out bulls for the breeding program," Terry said.

"We're really excited about the state wins, especially since both teams are from Lebanon," Hill said. "We hope to do better than we did last year.

"This year, hopefully we will know more what to expect, what kinds of questions they will be asking," she said.

"We're going to start practicing heavily in March. It's a little hard to get together to practice because Dave and Angie are both in college."

ADADC District 18 Meeting Scheduled

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Attention District 18 dairy farmers - mark your calendars now for the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council's (ADADC) district annual meeting. Scheduled for February 14, the informational evening will be held at Embers Restaurant in Carlisle, starting at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to fellowship with local dairy farmers, the District 18 members will be updated on programs provided by ADADC. They will see how their promotional contribution benefits the dairy industry in the advertising of dairy products.

Refreshments will be served. No reservations are necessary. The restaurant is located at the junction of Route 11, Exit 17 east, off of Route 81.

District 18 counties include Lebanon, Lancaster, Dauphin, Berks, Chester, York, Cumberland, Adams and Franklin.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. is a dairy promotion organization representing dairy producers from Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

"It's similar to Hershey Medical Center in offering services many private hospitals can not offer. Hershey is important to the commonwealth, and even Casey's used that facility when he required quadruple bypass heart surgery.

"Once again, the governor is taking a shot at production agriculture."

While overall ag research has apparently not been cut, Crawford said that Penn State University's appropriations for agricultural research went from $19,268,000 to $17,268,000. PSU research had received a $1 million boost last year and now gets a $2 million cut.

"There is no question that we will be confering with Penn State University and the University of Pennsylvania to discuss that funding and any steps that may be necessary to address that situation," Crawford said.

Miller said that the House and Senate are apparently not too far apart in criticism of the budget.

"Basically, we had identified the same basic concerns with the governors proposal. But there are a couple other areas of concern.

"The Farm Show transfer fund, which has been reduced from $1 million down to $650,000. It has been budgeted at $1 million for as long as I can remember," Miller said.

"At first blush, the farm community may say, 'What impact does that have on us?

"It will because the leases for several agricultural shows held there will be affected.

"So far, the costs of operating were reduced because the (Farm Show) management was good and able to do a good job and reduce it. But to cut their budget because they are doing job is punishment instead of a reward for good managment.

"The junior dairy show, the 4-H horse and pony show, Keystone International Livestock Exposition and the All-American Show, may be forced into paying higher fees for renting space when they come to host the show next year. That will have a ripple effect that will impact on farmers," Miller said.

Furthermore, Miller attacked a proposed cut in funding which Casey has repeatedly made in his proposed budgets.

"The $40,000 that Gov. Casey, in his infinite wisdom, has tried to take away from the FFA Foundation, which is basically a youth organization, certainly seems unwise.

"That is puting $40,000 not only into our farm youth, but he should recognize that the state's largest FFA organization is in Philadelphia. We think it is unwise to drop the money from support of some of the urban youth and put into a drug rehab program somewhere else. We think it is well spent as it is and needs to be continued."

"Going back to the farm show, his justification, similar to the milk marketing board, is trying to convince the public that this is a move for self-sufficiency. But they are taking money that is taken in from the Farm Show and asking the commission just to drop those in the general fund.

"Not only do we have to disagree with reducing the Farm Show budget for 1991-92, but in the present fiscal year he's targeting $859,000 from their funds. So he's costing the Farm Show almost $1 million as it celebrates it's 75th anniversay; which is not a very nice birthday present."

Farmland Trust Campaign Called Success

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster Farmland Trust has raised $100,000 in contributions and pledges to meet its 1990 Funding Campaign goal, Dorothy Lyet, the Campaign Chairperson announced today. Mrs. Lyet, Honorary Chair of the drive, stated "We're expecting several additional contributions this week that will enable us to top our goal, including another pledge received today. We're thrilled with the success of the campaign."

Brent Shunk, Lancaster Farmland Trust Board Trustee and 1991 fundraising chairman, applauded the Lancaster County business community for its increased support this year through the Trust's new program of three-year pledges. The pace for pledging was set early in the campaign with a generous three-year gift from Lancaster Newspapers and Lancaster Farming newspaper. Mr. Shunk noted, "We're gratified to see support for the Lancaster Farmland Trust increasing in all sectors of the Lancaster community, most notably among businesses, both agricultural and non-farm. Individual giving to the Trust rose this year as well."

The growth of support from the business community is based largely upon recognition of the Trust's success in preserving prime farmlands throughout the county. As a non-profit organization, the Lancaster Farmland Trust has preserved more than 1500 acres of farmland. The Trust's growing membership consists of more than 1300 county residents as well as businesses and industries, whose contributions fund the Trust's efforts to preserve the traditional culture and land of Lancaster's agriculturally based economy.

Adds Dorothy Lyet, "For Lancaster Countians, our surrounding farmland makes a significant contribution to our strong economy as well as the high quality of life we all enjoy. Planning for a future as pleasant as our past is imperative if Lancaster County is to remain a unique and special place in which to live. Success in our 1990 Funding Campaign is one way to help insure this."

The Lancaster Farmland Trust is a private, farmland preservation organization located at 128 East Marion Street, Lancaster, PA 17603. For further information, call the Trust offices at 293-0707.

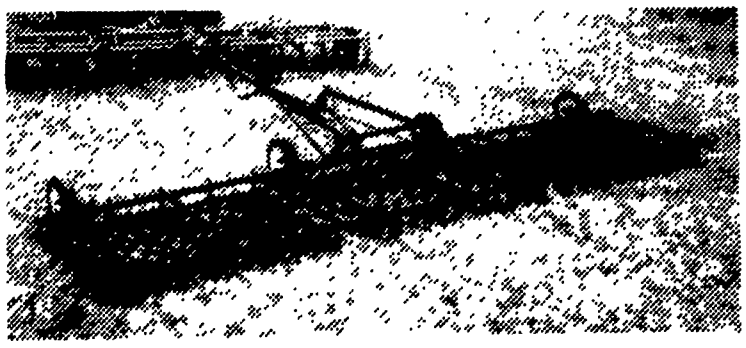
HARROW®

Original "Spreading Action"® tines give better coverage at much higher speeds. Adjusts without tools to provide the right penetration for a big variety of jobs!

PASTURES: Increases quality and quantity of feed from pastures. Aerates to stimulate growth and improve moisture penetration. Scatters droppings, reducing parasites. Prepares soil for overseeding without disturbing existing growth. Works in seed and fertilizer. Many owners report pasture yield increases of 15%.



HERBICIDE INCORPORATION: Independent research using black light photography proves the Fuerst Harrow behind your disk or cultivator gives you "near perfect" incorporation in one pass--better than implements costing several times more! Shreds trash as it prepares & levels seedbeds.

BROADCASTING SMALL GRAINS AND GRASSES: University of Illinois found overseeding by broadcasting followed by a Fuerst Harrow a superior combination, out-performing equipment costing more than 10 times as much. Pulled behind the broadcaster, it covers seed to desired depth in one time-saving operation.

SHREDS STALKS: Shreds and spreads stalks in spring ahead of no-till and ridge-till planting.

4 to 42 ft. widths. Flexes to cover every inch at 6-8 mph. No maintenance. Easy to use and store. Insist on the original "Spreading Action"® tines.

Quality Ayrshire Consignments Wanted

HAMBURG (Berks Co.) — The Pennsylvania Ayrshire sales committee is looking for outstanding consignments for the annual PA Ayrshire Calf and Heifer Sale. The sale will be held on Saturday, March 23 at 10:30 a.m. at the Solanco Fairgrounds, Quarryville, Pa.

The sale is conducted primarily to provide good foundation animals to 4-H and FFA members. However, anyone interested in adding Ayrshires to their herd is welcome. The proceeds from this sale will benefit the PA Ayrshire youth organization.

Anyone who would like to consign heifers or who would like to receive a catalog please contact John Rodgers, R.D. #1, Box 129, Belleville, PA 17004, phone (717) 935-5242 or Milt Brubaker, 595 Snyder Hill Rd., Lititz, PA 17543, phone (717) 626-5788.

Grandin Warns

facilities, Grandin spoke about her experience with cattle producers and packagers.

According to Grandin, bruises are costing the cattle industry about $22 million per year.

Tremendous loss

"There's a tremendous loss that just saps the whole industry," she said, robbing producers and packagers out of large amounts of money per head. The problem, as she put it, "gets down to a lack of accountability."

Grandin revealed results of several studies, including several of her own observations and surveys taken over a 20-year period. Within the past 10 years, however, she has concentrated her research on Mid-West and Eastern producers and slaughterhouses. Grandin has found a wide range of data that shows that, in too many cases, producers and packagers are doing a great deal of harm to the cattle industry.

Bruises alone create a great deal of problem — all stemming from mishandling and gross negligence, especially in the case of the 10-15 percent of the "hardcore abusers that are dragging cripples around, throwing calves, just doing stuff that every decent livestock producer knows is wrong. And we have got to do something about these bad actors. We have to put a lot of pressure on the bad actors or they'll wreck the rest of the industry."

Even though many feedyard managers do a superb job, according to Grandin, the whole industry must come together and educate "John Q. public" about what the industry is trying to do to maintain good animal husbandry techniques.

Expensive part

The livestock expert said that 45 percent of all bruises happen in the loin area, the most expensive part of the animal. She related statistics taken by a Colorada packer that reports about 5 percent of all the fed feedlot cattle (particularly in the West) have bruises. "That's adding up to a loss of 43 cents a head on the average," she said.

Moyer Packing Co., in an independent study, proved that 2-10 percent of all cattle have rib-area bruises. The loin bruises occured on up to about 30 percent of the cattle — a loss of $8-24 a head.

And back bruises are increasing, mostly because, Grandin believes, of the trucks used to transport them.

"The thing that's bad about all these bruises is that it hasn't decline that much," she said. "Why are bruises still just as bad now as they were 10 years ago?"

Segmented market

Grandin attributes the continuing losses to not only mismanagement, but the fact that the industry operates as a segmented market. The problem is, the producer doesn't get a premium price for extra work and expense he puts into the calves.

Grandin said rough handling is the biggest cause of all bruises. The other half is caused by defects in the facilities, such as sharp edges, cattle being agitated, or gates that fall on cattle.

"Where those feedyards are going to start getting a $200 deduction on a truckload of cattle, you should have seen them do something about bruises," she said. "Bruises dropped from 14 percent of the cattle to 7 percent."

Cattle bruising and mismanagement are hurting the industry, according to Dr. Tample Grandin. She spoke on Tuesday at the Cattle Feeders Day in Lancaster.

She said that when the feedlot operators had to start paying for the bruises, "all of a sudden, the bruises got important. And then they went out and got these special trucks to haul these precious little darlings in," she said. "For years I've talked to these feedyards about bruises, and they could care less! But then all of a sudden when they had to pay for it, they did something about it."

H. Louis Moore, Penn State economist, gave his 1991 predictions for the beef industry at the Cattle Feeder's Day.

Dark cutters — meat which has been stressed, and turns dark, with a shorter shelf life — is another major problem that Grandin sees occuring with increasing regularity. This shows up on a lot of 4-H cattle, raised individually and not socalized with the other penned animals. The problem occurs when, after the show and sale, the cattle then are brought together for a length of time and fight until they are slaughtered — by that time, about 20 percent, on average, become dark cutters.

"The national incidence of dark cutters is going up," she said. Another reason is that we are breeding more lean cattle. "There's also the possibility that some of the hormone implants . . . could be increasing." She said that hormone implants have to be more carefully researched into the affect they may have on dark cutters.

Other factors

Other factors that contribute to bruises on cattle include sudden weather change (32 degrees F with an icy rain is very life threating to cattle) and injection site damage because of "sloppy, dirty injection techniques," said Grandin. Some vaccines are very irritating and cause pus.

This kind of problem is costing about $1.44 an animal and affects about 8 percent of all cattle.

"This is pretty bad, this is pretty serious," she said. "This is the sort of thing that's going to get us into a lot of trouble with the consumer."

Top concern

But educating the consumer about how meat is produced should be a top concern of feedyard operators and packers. Grandin mentioned that producers should take time to explain exactly how meat is produced.

"Maybe we ought to actually show how the animal is slaughtered," said Grandin. "The general public thinks that (the cattle) are bashed over the heads with a sledgehammer. What actually happens doesn't actually look as bad as people are imagining is happening."

"We have a choice of us showing (the slaughter process) and showing it nicely, or the animal rights people are going to go to some scud-pit packing plant and take some really grotesque pictures.

People imagining

"What people are imagining is worse than what's actually going on in a well-run place," she said.

"As long as we don't have accountability, these losses just keep happening," she said. "We live in an era where a high percentage of the public does not know where food or other products come from, where perception is reality."

The livestock expert believes that the main factor is communication. "We have to start communicating with the public. We're not going to be able to do anything about the animal rights radicals. We need to communicate to Mr.

NEW DAIRY TECH* FEEDS

Faced with reduced "Milk Prices" and increased operating expenses, today's Dairymen are looking for reasonable ways to reduce feed costs and improve milk production.

To help the dairymen achieve these goals Pennfield has developed a new line of "Dairy Tech" feeds. The new feeds are well fortified to meet the nutritional needs of high producing cows, and use multiple protein sources to achieve cost savings.

Feed Description	Protein %	Fat %	Discounted Delivered Price
#52542 Pelleted Conc.	42%	3.5%	$247.21 Per Ton
#52520 Flaked Complete	20%	2.5%	$169.60 Per Ton

FEED PRICES AND GRAIN EXCHANGE PRICES ARE FOR WEEK OF FEB. 11 AND SUBJECT TO CHANGE WEEKLY WITH GRAIN MARKET

Includes 8 ton volume discount and cash discount of 2½ % due 15th following month. Deduct additional $3.00 per ton if paid in 10 days.

* A Small Percentage Of Protein In Dairy Tech Feeds Is Derived From NPN Sources

CUSTOMER SATISFACTION GUARANTEED:

State, used the letters from the word FARMER to discuss food system, attributes, resources, management, education and research. Boyd Wolff, state ag secretary, said the recession had forced budget cuts that are felt by all segments of government. But he listed exports of Pennsylvania products as a bright spot in the economy.

Food baskets of products from Pennsylvania's bountiful food system were prepared and presented to each legislator that was at the dinner. Sponsors included: Agway, Inc.; Atlantic Dairy Cooperative; Eastern Milk Producers; Farm Credit: Pennsylvania Marketing Committee; Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Association; Hershey Foods; Holly Milk Cooperative; Maisr's Bakery; Moyer Packing Company; Knouse Foods; Pennsylvania Aggregates and Concrete Association; Pennsylvania Agronomics Products Association.

Pennsylvania Association of Milk Dealers; Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association; Pennsylvania Food Processors Association; Pennsylvania Fruit Growers Association; Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Association; Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council and Pennsylvania Potato Growers Cooperative.

and Mrs. John Q. Public that have a lot of misconceptions."

Beef predictions

H. Louis Moore, Penn State economist, gave his predictions for the beef industry at the Cattle Feeder's Day. In 1991, beef production will be up about 1 percent; pork, about 2 percent; lamb will remain unchanged at 0 percent; and veal, down 7 percent. But the total red meat production should increase about 2 percent.

Broilers, which were up about 7 percent in 1990, will increase about 5 percent in 1991. Turkeys will go up the same amount, hiking total meat production up about 3 percent.

Moore remains "guardedly optimistic" about 1991.

Other factors, such as the Gulf War and the weather, have to be considered. But feed prices should be no higher or perhaps slightly less than 1990 levels, he said.

Honor National FFA Week

Salute the Future Farmers of America

FEBRUARY 10 To 16

Learning the skills necessary to become a farmer is becoming more difficult. It's not just driving a tractor or planting seeds. It's knowing business, market prices, mechanical maintenance, botany, biology and much more. The skills are endless, and we salute the young men and women for taking pride in this profession and wish them a bright and prosperous future.

Vegetable Day Looks At Grower Concerns

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — The Adult Farmer Program of the Eastern Lancaster County School District will conduct an all-day program for vegetable growers at the Summit Valley Elementary School on Monday, February 18, 1991.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. with coffee, donuts, and visiting exhibits. General sessions will cover topics such as vegetable diseases, growing cool season crops, and management practices to optimize vegetable production.

There will be a series of concurrent meetings going on during the day including topics on vegetable fertilization, strawberries, greenhouse tomato production, greenhouse biosecurity, starting and expanding greenhouses, and tree fruit management.

In addition, several video tapes will be shown during the day on integrated pest management, food watch, and stress on the family farm. Also a special demonstration on stir frying will be of interest to the ladies attending. An explanation of the vegetable referendum money collected from vegetable growers will also be presented.

Producers may want to bring more than one member of the family in order to attend sessions going on at the same time.

Credits toward pesticide recertification will be awarded to those with private applicator licenses. Be sure to bring your current private applicator license with you. Some special sessions for those needing category credits for soil fumigation will be held in the afternoon.

Presenters on the program will include Agway vegetable specialists Frank Donohue and Phil Dimick; Steve Reiners, Rutgers University horticulture specialist; Ted Shenk, local producer; Bruce Hellerick, Lancaster County horticulture agent; Floyd Rank, Erth-Rite; Larry Yager, extension marketing specialist; and reps from several ag supply and chemical companies.

The Summit Valley Elementary School is located on Eastern School Rd., 1½ miles south of New Holland between Brimmer and Kinzer Avenues. The meeting will be in the all-purpose room on the east side of the building.

For more information, contact Don Robinson at the Adult Farmer Office at (717) 354-4525 or Bruce Hellerick at the county extension office at (717) 394-6851.

Estate Planning Meeting Set

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Do you know the real size of your estate? Have you been asked to be, or are you presently the executor or executrix of an estate? Knowing precisely what steps are necessary in settling an estate can help you work more efficently with your legal counsel and can greatly aide in the transfer of your estate.

Chester County Cooperative Extension will hold an estate planning meeting on Tuesday, February 12, at 7:00 p.m., at the Paul B. Dague Building, (3rd floor), 235 West Market Street, West Chester. The program will include information on: • What is estate planning? • What happens if I die without a will? • Federal estate and gift tax rates • Practical land transfer alternatives including gifting and installment sales. • Goals setting. • Problems to avoid in estate planning. • State inheritance tax rates. • Tools to use in estate planning: - Trusts - Special farmland use evaluation - Life insurance - Types of property ownership - Federal estate and gift tax payment options - Gifting programs and installment sales.

This educational meeting is designed to make farmers aware of the complexities involved in estate planning and settlement, to provide resource materials, to help them use professionals more efficiently, and to encourage them to work closely with legal counsel in all phases of estate settlement.

Speakers will be Alan W. Strock, extension agent; Guy Matthews, attorney; and Robert K. Smith, insurance agent.

Ag Chemical Safety Conference Important

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A conferene on compliance with agricultural chemical safety guidelines will be held from 8 a.m. to 3:40 p.m. on Feb. 14 at the Quality Inn in Carlisle, Pa. Representatives from government, businesses, and Penn State will be on hand to discuss agricultural chemical regulations and safety procedures.

John Tacelosky, pesticide certification and education specialist with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, will give an update on state pesticide regulations. Kerry Hoffman, project assistant with Penn State's Pesticide Education Program, will discuss the Environmental Protection Agency's farm worker safety regulations.

Dr. Paul Robillard, assistant professor of agricultural engineering, will examine groundwater quality controls. Dr. Winand K. Hock, director of the Pesticide Education Program, will discuss spill containment and cleanup. Other topics to be covered at the conference include chemical respirators, fumigation safety, sprayer calibration, and chemical storage facilities.

Conference participants will be eligible for six core credits and one category specific credit for state pesticide certification.

The conference is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Agricultural Safety Council, an organization dedicated to preventing farm-related accidents. Co-sponsors include Agway, Inc.; Lancaster General Hospital; Penn State College of Agriculture; and the Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

The $25 conference registration fee includes lunch. Checks should be made payable to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Safety Council and sent to Dennis J. Murphy, 211 Agricultural Engineering Building, University Park, PA 16802.

Pennsylvania Farm Women President Reveals

How To Throw A Successful Party

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Newly elected Pennsylvania Farm Women President Arlene Witman loves to throw parties — all kinds of parties.

"For a successful party, planning is the main thing," Arlene stresses, "although some spur of the moment parties turn out well."

Arlene is distressed that many families no longer entertain because they feel it is too difficult.

She said, "You must cultivate entertaining. It's an effort if you only do it once in a blue moon, but if you entertain on a regular basis, it's easy."

According to this seasoned party thrower, it isn't necessary for guests to know each other.

"In fact," she said, "I prefer to invite those who don't know each other. But I do have a good idea which personalities will hit it off together."

Although she throws numerous types of parties, Arlene most often invites 24 people at a time. She sets up three tables of eight in one of the main rooms of her rambling stone farmhouse.

Usually, placards with a small number appear at each plate setting. For the main course, husband and wife are seated together, but when dessert is served, all those who have even numbers listed on their placards must move to another table.

"That way guests don't sit with the same persons all evening, and they learn to know those they wouldn't otherwise," she said.

Types of parties

When Arlene throws a soup and salad supper she makes three soups such as vegetable, clam chowder, and ham and bean. A whole tableful of salads such as chicken, broccoli, and spaghetti are served buffet style. Soup is served in mugs for ease in carrying.

She advises, "At a buffet dinner, never serve food that needs a knife. "If you can't cut it with a fork, it's too cumbersome to serve buffet style."

Brunch parties usually includes baked oatmeal and an egg and sausage casserole. Arlene believes the traditional breakfast is one of the hardest to serve since eggs must be served at exactly the right minute, but the egg and sausage casserole and the baked oatmeal makes breakfast a breeze.

An after church brunch often includes her version of Chicken Stoltzfus which is creamed chicken over pie dough. "I take a basic recipe and just keep adding whatever I like," she said.

Arlene loves giving tea parties where she uses her very best china.

She said, "Often we forget to use the pretty things we have. I love to use my mother's and my grandmother's things. I'm sure that they would rather see me use them than have the dishes set in the cupboard."

Another reason Arlene enjoys using fine china is that "it makes others feel special."

For 15 years Arlene has worked part time at the Linen Hope Chest, which sells fine china and glassware. Every year, Arlene buys something special. She has purchased the Lenox Holly pattern that she enjoys using for Christmas entertainment.

She admits, "My pet peeve is Styrofoam cups. It doesn't take that much time to wash dishes and it yet using them is so much nicer."

Arlene picks up many fine things at public auctions. She is especially proud of purchasing a 14-place setting of white china for $20.

Arlene believes January and February are good months for parties to beat the winter blahs. She is planning a winter picnic where she will use picnic tablecloths and serve picnic type foods.

"That's when I serve potato salad," Arlene said. "I'm very conscious of what I serve in hot weather because I had severe food poisoning when I was in nurse's training."

Sometimes she has guests just for dessert. "It's not the amount of food you serve. It's more important to get together and have a good time," she said.

"As for myself, it's a pleasure to be invited to someone's house just to get a break from cooking. One of my favorite meals is a stew for winter dining."

Arlene said that she doesn't feel that she needs to make the food from scratch. Since she works one day a week as a hostess at Country Table Restaurant in Mount Joy, she often buys items from the bakery.

This pepperoni and cabbage salad is one of Arlene's favorite dishes to serve guests.

Every five years, the Witmans hold a drop-in party for neighbors. For those, she usually has a relish tree, which is a Styrofoam cone turned upside down and covered with parsley to resemble a Christmas tree. Carrot curls, pickles, olives and cheese chunks are stuck on the tree with toothpicks. Nuts and mints, cake, and Christmas novelty ice cream are served with coffee and spiced cider. Scattered throughout the house are bowls of popcorn, candy, and oranges for guests to enjoy.

Occasionally, the Witmans serve meals in their basement. The ground cave is carved out of stone and has a brick floor. These dinners are reminiscent of early Christians fellowshipping in caves. "One year we served the Easter dinner there and had a whole new appreciation for the dangers early Christians faced," Arlene said.

This room is large enough to seat three tables of eight.

The Witmans' beautiful stone house between Mount Joy and Elizabethtown dates back to pre-Revolutionary days and was built by a fur trader with the Union army. The Witman family has had the farm for more than 100 years.

Of the many fine antiques that have been handed down through the generations, Arlene said, "Each piece has a story connected with it."

This past year, a picture of the homestead appeared on a Christmas card by Pennsylvania House, which sold about 2 million copies.

When the Witmans hold parties for 24 people, Arlene arranges six different game sites. Guests play at each game for about 15 minutes, then pull papers to find new partners at another game.

"That way guests can talk and play at the same time and they get to know a lot of different people. If they don't like the game, they aren't stuck there all night," she said.

Arlene uses originality when it comes to centerpieces. "Don't be afraid to try something different. Use plants or stuffed animals or something as basic as a lazy Susan — I have a marble one that I've been using for 25 years," she said.

For centerpieces, she uses something as simple as some Irish potatoes for March. On Thanksgiving, she uses the turkey.

In preparation for entertaining, Arlene freezes a lot of her own vegetables. She said, "It's nice to have some frozen onions, peppers, and tomatoes on hand to use with Swiss steak or in casseroles. I wouldn't be without my own frozen corn."

Arlene knows for parents to enjoy her parties, it is important that their children are enjoying them also.

Pennsylvania Farm Women President Arlene Witman enjoys incorporating stuffed animals into her party theme. This bear is representative of Arlene because it holds a gravel and wears a Farm Women pin.

Children enjoy what she dubbed the Boston Tea Party where she serves hot tea and s'mores at the fireplace. Then the children like to play board, marbles, and dice games. A favorite with all ages is an old game called "Chase the Rat."

Dinner with Little Red Riding Hood, the big bad wolf, and grandmother dolls are another favorite for children. These dolls are handmade and when turned upside down, the grandmother doll turns into the big, bad wolf. Arlene packs the children a little lunch in a basket for them to carry to a nearby bench or coffee table where the dolls are placed.

Arlene would like to see the younger generation carry on hospitality. As a past 4-H leader, Arlene led a party time club.

"It was a neat club and I'm proud that four of my members got to attend 4-H Congress for foods," she said.

Some of the 4-H'ers most unique dishes were using a tomato that was turned upside down and sliced almost the whole way through. The tomato spread out like an accordion and egg salad was placed between the slices.

Party loaf was another favorite. A loaf of unsliced bread was sliced horizonally several times and buttered. It was layered with chicken

GUIDELINES FOR SUCCESSFUL PARTIES

- Keep food simple.
- Don't think everything must be spic and span.
- Use what you have. You don't need to use expensive china and crystal to entertain, but if you have it, use it — it makes guests feel special.
- Serve hot foods hot and cold foods cold.
- Don't feel obligated to make food from scratch. Baked goods such as a pumpkin roll purchased from a bakery is easy to serve and delicious to taste.
- Relate your food or centerpiece to the season.
- Make the occasion special for children.
- Relax. Enjoy your guests.
- Practice makes perfect. The more parties you have, the easier it gets.

salad, cheese spread, sliced ham, and other items and then iced with cream cheese. The bread was then sliced vertically and served for hors d'oeuvres.

According to the Witmans, having company for dinner offers benefits. "Kids learn to share and they learn manners at the table," Arlene said. "You can tell when children are brought up to have company. Company teaches them to make better conversation."

Children learn party etiquette, which includes not asking a lawyer about law or a doctor for medical advice.

Most of all, they learn to love people.

BLACK DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE

2 cups flour
1¾ cups sugar
½ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon baking soda
⅔ cup oil
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup strong coffee (instant may be used)

Sift together flour, sugar, cocoa, salt, and baking soda. Add oil and buttermilk. Stir until well blended. Bring coffee to a boil and stir gently into batter. Mixture will be soupy. Bake at 350 degrees in greased and floured 9x13 pan for 35 to 45 minutes.

Ice with recipe on Hershey's cocoa box).

PEPPERONI CABBAGE SALAD

1 head cabbage, shredded
1 onion, shredded
1 green pepper, slivered
3 tomatoes, diced
2 carrots, thinly sliced
½ pound longhorn cheese
½ pound pepperoni
Olives, optional

Dressing:

⅔ cup sugar
⅔ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon celery seed

Boil together ingredients. Cool. When cool, add:

⅔ cup salad oil

Mix dressing with vegetable

PRETZELS

Melt 1 stick butter in 9x13-inch pan. Add 1 large package of small pretzels.

Add 1 package of dry onion soup mix, ground in blender or food processor.

Mix well and put in 225 degree oven for 2 hours. Stir every 15 minutes.

SHRIMP DIP

1 can broken or small shrimp
1 small onion, diced
4 ounces sharp cheese, grated
Dash garlic salt
Dash celery salt
½ cup Miracle Whip
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon parsley flakes

Drain shrimp and break into tiny pieces. Add cheese and onion. Mix well. Add salts, Worcestershire sauce and parsley flakes. Mix all with salad dressing. Refrigerate. Best if made a day ahead.

The Witman's farmhouse dates back to pre-Revolutionary days. Last year a side view of the house was printed by Pennsylvania House and sold more than a million copies.

ICE BOX CAKE

1 box chocolate wafers
1 pint heavy cream, whipped with 4 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract

Spread cookies with cream, put in stacks of 4 or 5 cookies. Reserve some of the cream to frost roll. Stand stacks on edge to make one long roll. Frost with remaining cream. Sprinkle a few cookie crumbs on top. Refrigerate at least 6 hours before serving. Cut diagonally at 45 degree angle.

DIP

1 pint container sour cream
1 package dry vegetable soup mix

CHEESE MIXTURE

½ pound swiss cheese, shredded
1 green pepper, shredded
3 tablespoons oil
4 teaspoons vinegar
1 teaspoon dijon mustard

Mix all ingredients and serve on crackers. Amounts of ingredients may vary according to personal tastes.

SPICED CIDER

Made in a crock pot

2 quarts apple cider
½ cup dark brown sugar
1 teaspoon whole allspice
½ teaspoon whole cloves
2 cinnamon sticks

Pour cider in a crock pot. Spices may be put in cheese cloth or in a tea strainer; otherwise, strain cider before serving. Cover, set on low temperature for 2 to 3 hours.

CORN BRAN HONEY CRUNCH

3 cups corn bran cereal
1 cup oatmeal, not instant
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
⅓ cup honey
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup raisins, optional

Heat oven to 325 degrees. In large bowl, combine first five ingredients. In small saucepan, combine butter, honey and brown sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until butter is melted and ingredients are well blended.

Pour over cereal mixture. Mix until well coated. Spread in 9x13-inch pan. Bake about 20 minutes, stirring twice. Immediately, spread on wax paper. Stir in raisins. Cool. Store in covered container. Makes 7 cups.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Plump dumplings steaming in a pot of bubbling stew, sauerkraut or chicken soup can bring memories of old-fashioned, cozy winter meals.

In your microwave, dumplings cook in about five minutes. They're an easy-to-make "comfort food." And they stretch a stew to feed a few extra or make a soup more filling for hungry winter appetites.

Start out by making the main dish, usually a stew or thick soup. It can be cooked "from scratch" in your microwave, like today's chili recipe. It can be reheated from yesterday's conventionally cooked stew, soup or similar dish. Or you can start with a can of store-bought stew or a combination of your favorite condensed and ready-to-eat canned soups.

Microwave this stew, covered, until it's almost boiling or is very hot. If it's not hot, the dumplings will cook slower on the bottom. Which means they'll probably be tough and dried out around the top edges! Use a deep, rather than shallow, casserole to speed cooking.

While the stew heats, stir up the dumplings. Have them ready to add as soon as the stew is hot. Drop the dumpling dough in small spoonfuls onto the hot stew. For the most even cooking, make the dumplings small (they get bigger as they cook), and leave a half-inch or so between them. Arrange the dough around the edges of the dish and leave the center open. Cover the dish with a lid or waxed paper.

Microwave on High (100 percent power, 650 to 700 watts) for four to five minutes. Cooking time may be longer in recipes where dumpling dough is thinner than today's recipes or when dumplings are cooked atop a very thin soup. Cooking time will also be longer in a lower-wattage microwave.

Check dumplings for doneness after 3½ minutes. When done, the dumplings will no longer be doughy-looking. Try to separate them with a fork. If necessary, recover and continue microwaving for intervals of 30 seconds. If your microwave cooks unevenly, rotate the dish once during cooking. And, if one dumpling just won't get done, finish cooking it, with a little stew underneath, in a custard cup covered with waxed paper.

The easiest dumplings are made with biscuit mix. I've included a basic recipe, which you can cook atop any of your favorite stews or thick soups. Today's other recipe includes a different kind of dumpling. These corn dumplings are delicious, too. They go well with the thick, spicy chili to make a comforting and cozy winter meal.

Easy Microwave Dumplings

1 cup buttermilk biscuit/baking mix (spooned into measure)
⅓ cup milk

Stir biscuit mix and milk together until mixed. Do not beat. (Some small lumps should remain.) Drop by 8 small spoonfuls around edges of hot stew, thick soup or other main dish, leaving center open. Cover with lid or waxed paper. Microwave (High) 3½ to 4½ minutes or until dumplings no longer look doughy on top (and when pulled apart with fork, inside parts are cooked). Serve warm. Makes 8 small dumplings.

Hint: For fastest cooking: Microwave stew or soup in a deep casserole until almost boiling before adding dumplings; make small dumplings, as directed (not large); and set a glass upright in center of stew before cooking.

Variations: For chicken corn or stew, stir in ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning to biscuit mix before adding milk. For beef stew or soup, add ¼ teaspoon dried basil leaves.

Each dumpling: 65 calories, 1g protein, 3g fat, 11g carbohydrate, 185mg sodium, 2mg cholesterol.

Chili With Corn Dumplings

1 pound lean ground beef
1 large onion, diced
½ green pepper, diced
1 garlic clove, minced or ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
3-4 teaspoons chili powder
1½ teaspoons ground cumin
Salt and peppere (optional)
1 can (15 ounces) tomato sauce
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes in juice, undrained
1 can (16 ounces) kidney beans, drained
1-2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
Corn Dumplings (below)

Crumble ground beef into a deep microwavable 2- to 3-quart casserole; add onion, green pepper and garlic. Cover casserole with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 6 to 7 minutes, stirring after each 2 minutes, until beef is barely cooked. Drain fat, if desired. (If using lean beef, there may be a very small amount of fat that adds flavor to the finished chili.) Stir in chili powder, cumin, and salt and pepper to taste. Stir in tomato sauce, undrained tomatoes, drained kidney beans and Worcestershire sauce. Microwave (High), covered with lid or waxed paper, 9 to 11 minutes or until chili starts to boil, stirring once.

Whili chili cooks, mix Corn Dumplings (below). Set a small, glass drinking glass upright in center of chili. Drop dumplings by 8 small spoonfuls around edges of hot chili. Cover with lid or waxed paper. Microwave (High) 4 to 6 minutes or until dumplings no longer look doughy on top. When pulled apart with a fork, inside edges and bottoms are cooked. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

To make ahead: Prepare chili as above. (Dumplings are best made right before serving, although small portions of chili with cooked dumplings reheat well.) Cover tightly and refrigerate until serving time. Then microwave (High), tightly covered, for 8 to 11 minutes or until hot, stirring once or twice. Add dumpling dough and continue as above.

Each serving — ⅙ of recipe, with Corn Dumplings: 297 calories, 18g protein, 11g fat, 31g carbohydrate, 570mg sodium, 64mg cholesterol.

Corn Dumplings

¾ cup all-purpose flour
¾ cup yellow cornmeal
¾ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

In a medium mixing bowl, stir together flour, cornmeal, baking powder and salt. In a separate bowl or measure, stir together milk, egg and oil; add to dry ingredients and mix well. (Do not beat.) Cook according to directions above. Makes 8 small dumplings.

Help For Child Care Directors

CREAMERY (Montgomery) — Directing a child care center or nursery school requires not only skills in child development and people skills, it also requires administrative skills. Penn State Cooperative Extension is offering a one-day seminar for child care directors on Tuesday, March 5, 1991 at Bentley's Restaurant in North Wales, Montgomery County. Registration begins at 9 a.m. and the workshop is from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The day will begin with Gregory Bruce, director of the MBA program at LaSalle University, speaking on leadership styles and how this affects one's ability to work effectively with others. Betsy Caesar, from General Recreation, Inc., will share the latest design and safety ideas in playground equipment. Dave Suchanic, extension agent will share tips on conducting an effective interview. This will include forms, check lists and other valuable tools to use during an interview. Rhonda Einstein, from Family Services of Montgomery County, will focus on stress management for child care directors.

The cost for the day is $25 and includes lunch and reference materials. Participants will receive .5 CEU from Penn State University. Registration is required. To receive your registration form, call the Montgomery County Extension office at 489-4315.

Stress Can Affect Eating Habits

Routines can be unbearable burdens rather than stabilizing factors in times of stress — especially when the routine is family dinner and the stress is due to a family member's absence because of military assignment.

Coping with that situation is easier for some people and harder for others. Friends and family can help, but an individual's attitude may be the deciding factor.

An attitude based on deprivation and over-indulgence usually results in frustration, guilt, and ironically, unwanted weight loss or weight gain.

From a nutritional standpoint, researchers know that healthy eating promotes physical health, which in turn helps an individual deal with mental stress.

Eating a variety of foods on moderate amounts is always advisable, and especially so for persons under stress. Doing so may be harder, however, especially if the individual feels out of control.

For example, family members cannot control government actions that affect where their loved ones are. But individuals can control their attitudes about their eating habits.

Exerting that power of control is one way children often deal with the stress of growing up. By refusing to eat certain foods or demanding other foods as treats, they are expressing a desire to be in control.

Just as parents seek to train their children to use that power to choose nutritious foods over junk foods, so too, do nutritionists advise stressed adults to use their power of choice wisely.

I want to point out three ways you can practice controlling food, rather than allowing food to control you.

First, get a grip on yourself. Admit that you feel stressed, but do not dwell on your "right" to be stressed. The sooner you accept that fact that you cannot control the source of your stress, the sooner you will be ready to take control over how you react to that stress. One choice you make in reacting to stress is whether you will continue to eat normally, or whether you will overeat or avoid eating.

Second, keep eating in perspective. It is neither the most important, nor the least important thing you do each day.

While planning nutritious meals and snacks can provide structure and give a focus to daily activities, it is good to realize that it is okay to take an occasional break from that structure.

Third, do not skip meals. That is always a temptation for most individuals who feel overworked due to increased job or family responsibilities.

Bolivia Hosts Alfred State Team

Skinfree Fried Chicken Available

In what it called the "biggest breakthrough since Colonel Sanders developed his secret blend of 11 herbs and spices," Kentucky Fried Chicken announced it will begin the nationwide introduction of skinfree fried chicken on the bone, lower in calories, fat and cholesterol than its traditional fried chicken.

The product, called Lite'n Crispy Chicken, will be rolled out to nearly 5,000 Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants this year, the company said. Some 700 KFC restaurants in the Northeast will have the product available beginning this week.

"Millions of Americans love the taste of our traditional fried chicken but would like a lighter alternative," said Kyle Craig, president of Kentucky Fried Chicken USA. "So we've developed a product for the '90s, a skinfree chicken which is lower in fat and calories but still tastes great."

The company spent more than a year developing the product, according to Craig. It is prepared, with Colonel Sanders' secret blend of 11 herbs and spices using deep marination. It is then lightly covered with a new breading specially-developed to absorb less oil during cooking. KFC only uses 100 percent vegetable oil. To complement the "better-for-you" product, salads and multi-grain rolls will be available in restaurants serving Lite'n Crispy.

Compared to KFC's skin-on Extra Tasty Crispy® chicken, new Lite'n Crispy has, on average, 39% fewer calories, 45% less fat, 44% less sodium and 37% less cholesterol.

"Many Americans are concerned about saturated fats and cholesterol, and the fast food industry is responding," she said. "With Lite'n Crispy, KFC is taking a significant step in the right direction."

Kentucky Fried Chicken operates and franchises more than 8,000 restaurants

Fresh American Lamb: The Healthy Choice

Today's lamb is more adaptable to your eating habits than ever before. Rich in nutrients, yet leaner and lower in calories and cholesterol, lamb makes the ideal meal for any occasion.

American lamb is a prime source of high quality protein, vitamins and minerals. Lamb is high in B vitamins, niacin, zinc and iron, 57 percent of the iron is far more usable in the body than the type of iron found in most other foods.

Compared to other meats, lamb contains very little marbling (internal fat throughout the meat). Since most of the fat lamb does have is on the outside edges, it's easily trimmed. That means fewer calories — only 176 in an average three-ounce serving or 7 percent of the average daily caloric intake recommended for 23- to 50-year-old males.

MARINADES FOR GRILLING LAMB

Basic Marinade:

2 cups olive oil
1 cup lemon juice
24 small sprigs of fresh thyme

Allow lamb kabobs to soak in marinade for 6 hours in refrigerator before putting on skewers.

Mint Butter:

6 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint
½ tablespoon lemon juice
Sea salt and black pepper

Delicious to use on grilled or broiled lamb cutlets or chops.

In a food processor add butter and chopped mints. Blend thoroughly. Add lemon juice and blend. Add salt and pepper to taste. Chill until firm. For an added touch, chill recipe in small earthware containers and serve as a spread on warm biscuits.

Recipe can be increased and butter frozen with the fresh mint of summer to use in the middle of winter on your lamb dishes.

Mint Sauce:

3 cups fresh mint leaves
1½ cups cider vinegar
½ cup sugar

Wash the mint leaves and pat them dry in a cloth. Chop them quite finely and pack into small jars. Boil the vinegar in a saucepan with the sugar until it is dissolved; pour it over the mint. Mix well. then screw down the lids. Store in a dark cupboard. To use, dilute with lemon juice and water to taste.

Good to brush on grilled lamb, broiled lamb or leg of lamb.

STRAWBERRY LAMB SHOULDER CHOPS

4 lamb shoulder chops, cut 1-inch thick
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon oil
½ cup lamb or chicken stock
2 cups fresh strawberries
1 tablespoon sugar
4 teaspoons raspberry vinegar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon strawberry extract, optional

Salt and pepper lamb to taste. Sear lamb in hot oil until well browned on both sides. Reduce heat, add stock, cover and simmer 30 minutes. Meanwhile, in a blender or food processor, puree 1 cup strawberries into pan juices. Stir over medium heat until thickened and smooth. Stir in extract, optional. Return lamb to pan and spoon sauce over lamb. Serve lamb with sauce and additional strawberries to garnish. Serves 4.

Grilling instructions:

Salt and pepper lamb chops to taste. Grill over medium coals about 4 inches from source of heat, 10 to 12 minutes. Turn chops and grill until done, 10 to 12 minutes longer, brushing frequently with fresh strawberry sauce.* Serve remaining sauce with lamb.

*Fresh Strawberry Sauce:

In food processor or blender, puree 1 cup strawberries, stock, and remaining ingredients. Pour into medium saucepan and cook over medium heat until thickened and smooth.

IRISH-AMERICAN LAMB STEW

2 pounds cubed boneless lamb
2 tablespoons margarine
2½ cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
3 medium potatoes, halved
6 small white onions
2 cups frozen peas
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 cup light cream
¼ cup flour

Brown lamb in margarine in large dutch oven or heavy saucepan with tight-fitting cover. Add water, salt, pepper, and thyme. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Skim off excess fat. Add potatoes and onions. Simmer, cover 30 minutes. Add peas and mushrooms. Simmer, covered, 15 minutes, or until lamb and vegetables are tender. Blend cream into flour; stir into bubbling stew and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Pennsylvania Apple Queen Emily Lott loves apples, preferably Ida Reds. Crowned the 35th Adams County Queen, she attained the state title in August.

Last week, Emily attended the Pennsylvania Fruit and Vegetable Growers Conference held in Hershey to learn new techniques for orchard work.

She helps with apple, peach, pear, and tomato harvesting in addition to odd jobs and paperwork on the family's Biglerville Orchard.

"My favorite job is working in the field," the 16-year-old queen said. "I'm cheap labor for my dad."

But the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lott Jr. is not complaining. "I plan to make the orchard business my career so I want to learn all that I can."

After graduation from Biglerville High School where she is FFA secretary, Emily plans to major in entomology and horticulture and become an entomology consultant.

Here is her favorite apple recipe.

GERMAN APPLE CAKE

½ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2¼ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 cups raw apples, diced or grated

Cream butter, sugar, and eggs until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing until smooth. Add apples. Pour into oblong cake pan.

Crumb topping:

½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup white sugar
½ cup chopped nuts
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Combine topping ingredients. Sprinkle on top of batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes.

QUESTION — A reader from Oakland, Md., would like a recipe for frozen yogurt that is soft and creamy like the commercial types.

QUESTION — R. Stoltzfus of Narvon would like a recipe for fruit dip.

Self-Filled Cupcakes

3 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking soda
½ cup cocoa
¾ cup + 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups water
½ cup milk

Mix together all dry ingredients. Add liquids. Mix well.

Filling:
8 ounces cream cheese
½ cup sugar
1 egg
6 ounces chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix together filling ingredients. Fill cupcake papers ⅔ full of chocolate mixture. Drop a teaspoonful of filling in each. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Self-Filled Cupcakes

1 package chocolate cake mix
1 8-ounce cream cheese, softened
⅓ cup sugar
1 egg
1 6-ounce package chocolate chips
⅛ teaspoon salt

Prepare cake mix according to package directions. Fill about 30 cupcake holders halfway. Combine other ingredients and place 1 teaspoonful on each cupcake. As cupcakes bake, the cake will rise and surround the filling. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

World's Best Filled Cupcakes

4 cups flour
4 cups sugar
1 cup cocoa
1 cup shortening
6 eggs
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
4 teaspoons baking soda
2 cups boiling water
2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine sugar, flour, cocoa, and baking powder; add shortening, eggs, milk, and vanilla. Beat well; add baking soda and water. Beat until thoroughly mixed. Fill cupcake papers ⅔ full and bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. When cool, cut out a hole in the center of cupcake and fill with the following filling; replace the center top. Makes 6 dozen.

Filling:
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
½ cup shortening
5 tablespoons flour
2 cups powdered sugar
½ cup butter

Cook flour and milk until it gets stiff. Cool; add vanilla, butter, shortening, and powdered sugar.

ANSWER — Marian Mosemann of Lehighton requested a Russian tea mixture. Thanks to numerous readers who sent the same two basic recipes. Patricia Sickler writes that the Russian tea mixture was a staple in members of the Officer's Wives Club at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio during the 1960s and '70s. "Not only does it taste good but it has a marvelous aroma," she said. Others who sent recipes included Naomi Blank, Kinzers; Rachel Himmelberger, Fleetwood; Joyce Haak, Bainbridge, N.Y.; and a reader from Oakland, Md.

Instant Russian Tea

2 cups Tang
½ cup instant lemon tea
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg or ground cloves
1 cup sugar
1 3-ounce package lemonade mix

Mix together all ingredients and store in a tight container. Use two to three teaspoons per cup of hot water.

Russian Tea

1 quart boiling water
2 or 3 sticks cinnamon
12 whole cloves
1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons tea
Juice of 4 oranges
Juice of 2 lemons
3 quarts boiling water

In a medium saucepan, boil first 4 ingredients for 15 minutes. Add tea and let steep. Strain. Pour into a 4-quart container. Add juices and water; let stand overnight. Or omit the last 3 quarts water and store in refrigeration. When ready for tea; add 3 parts water to 1 part tea as desired. Makes about 4 quarts or 30 servings.

ANSWER — Marian Mosemann of Lehighton requested a recipe for gingerbread ornaments made out of applesauce and cinnamon. Thanks to Kathryn Fetterman of Ringtown for sending a recipe.

Gingerbread Ornaments

¾ cup cinnamon
1 cup applesauce
1 tablespoon allspice
2 tablespoons cloves
1 tablespoon nutmeg

Mix all together. Roll dough with a rolling pin sprinkled with cinnamon to keep dough from sticking. Cut in desired shapes with holiday cutters or mold figures by hand. Put a small hole in top to insert ⅛ -inch ribbon for hanging. Let air dry 4 to 5 days.

ANSWER — Ruth Kuhns, Millmont, wanted to know where to purchase coarse salt or coarse kosher salt used on pretzels. Thanks to R. Stoltzfus of Narvon who writes that the salt can be purchased from Centerville Bulk Foods, 3501 B Scenic Rd., Gordonville, Pa. 17529.

Lamb

THRIFTY LAMB PIE

2 cups diced cooked lamb
1 cup diced potatoes
1 onion, finely chopped
⅓ cup diced green pepper
⅔ cup diced celery
⅔ cup canned tomatoes, drained
½ teaspoon sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups lamb stock
1 recipe for biscuit dough

Combine all ingredients except dough; bring to a boil. Simmer for 15 to 20 minutes. Place mixture in 1½ quart baking dish. Prepare biscuit dough; roll one-half inch thick. Place 1-inch strip around top of dish. Cut remaining dough into rounds. Place over pot. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes.

MINTED LAMB SALAD

Mint Vinaigrette:
½ cup cider vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon dried mint leaves
½ teaspoon anise seeds

For vinaigrette: in a 2-cup glass measuring cup, combine oil, vinegar, sugar, mint, and anise. Set aside.

Lamb salad:
2 cups cold cooked rice
1 large red Delicious apple, unpared, coarsely chopped
¼ cup sliced green onions with tops
2½ cups cooked lean Pennsylvania lamb strips

In a large bowl, combine rice, apple, and green onions. Add ½ cup vinaigrette. Stir to combine. Arrange lettuce on a serving platter. Top with rice mixture and lamb strips. Pour remaining vinaigrette over lamb. Serves 4.

LAMBURGERS IN A BLANKET

1½ pounds lean ground lamb
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons catsup
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 package refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
3 tablespoons sesame seeds

In a large bowl, mix together all ingredients except rolls. Mix well. Divide into six equal parts and shape into patties. Broil about seven minutes on each side. Separate crescent roll dough into four rectangles. Spread dough on cutting board and press perforations closed with fingertips. Cut dough into one-inch strips and wrap around each patty. Roll in sesame seeds. Arrange lamb patties on a piece of aluminum foil on a baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes or until brown.

LAMB CHOPS TERIYAKI

4 to 8 lamb rib or loin chops, cut ¾ -inch thick
¼ cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons ground ginger
¾ cup soy sauce
¼ cup lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced

Arrange lamb chops in glass baking dish. Combine brown sugar, ginger, soy sauce, lemon juice and garlic. Pour over lamb and marinate for at least 3 hours or overnight in refrigerator, turning occasionally. Preheat broiler. Place chops on rack in broiling pan 3 to 5 inches from source of heat. Broil 6 to 8 minutes. Turn and broil 6 to 8 minutes or until desired degree of doneness.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Shuffling through some papers recently, awakened a lot of old memories. There in a big brown envelope were the records of the 4-H clubs in which I was a leader for 15 years. The first drafts of programs for the year with corrections for plans that didn't work out certainly jarred my memory.

Each month we visited a greenhouse, a veterinary clinic, a television station or something connected to the children's projects. Our membership varied from 15 to some 30 youngsters in our Community Club. When my youngest child went off to college, I decided to give up the leadership as many members in the suburbs had a lot of other commitments and did not finish their projects.

For several years my daughters conducted cooking classes in my large, new kitchen. A complete meal was prepared at each meeting and these gatherings were well attended. I didn't need to lift a finger as my girls ordered the food, supervised its preparation, cleaned up afterward and collected the money.

Many papers that I've saved include brochures of our travels. I suppose they should be thrown away, but one imagines that someday we'll sit down and look them over again. Then there are personal letters and cards that bring back memories of past times.

After phoning several retirement communities, I found a home for last year's "Reader's Digest" magazines and for the colorful "Modern Maturity" magazines. My children have also subscribed to "Country" and "Country Woman" for us. These are beautiful magazines, but often, I never even remove their plastic covers. Therefore, I'm glad to find someone who has the time to enjoy them. My reading is mostly confined to the daily newspaper and farm magazines.

Visit Lebanon County Li'l Miss Dairy Princess

Lebanon County Li'l Miss Dairy Princess Katie Lentz sings her favorite song that tells about God who makes dairy cows to make chocolate shakes.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon County) — "Drink milk to make your muscles strong," Katie Lentz tells people.

Although only six years old, Katie has a job to do. She is the Li'l Miss Dairy Princess for Lebanon County.

She wears a crown and a banner when she works at her job. That job is to tell others how good milk, cheese, ice cream, and other dairy products are to taste. Sometimes she goes to stores and hands out samples of cheese or milkshakes. Sometimes she rides in parades and waves to the crowd.

Katie said that her favorite things to eat are macaroni and cheese, yogurt, muenster cheese, milkshakes, and teaberry ice cream.

Each of her favorite dishes have milk in them.

"Milk makes my teeth strong, too," Katie said.

To become the Li'l Miss Dairy Princess, Katie had to attend a contest and answer questions. She took a poster to the contest. The poster had cow pictures on it with her and her brother, Dustin, who live on a dairy farm with their parents, Gary and Barbara Lentz.

Katie told the man who interviewed her that she wanted to sing a song for the audience.

Katie sang her favorite song called God's Love. She sang, "God made puppy dogs, and kitty cats. He made dairy cows, dairy cows, to make chocolate shakes, and dish rags to clean the mess we make."

The audience loved the song. They clapped and clapped.

The song was written many years ago by Mauri Macy. It is a song that Katie's mother said changed Katie's life.

Before Katie learned that song, she was very shy. She did not like to talk with strangers or go places without her parents. But she liked to sing so she started singing in the children's choir at her church. When the choir director taught the children the song about God's Love, Katie loved it so much. It reminded her of the things she loved on her farm — puppy dogs, kitty cats, cows, and milkshakes.

Soon she wanted to sing it for other people. When she entered the Li'l Miss Dairy contest, she knew the other people would like it too.

"I don't get nervous when I sing it," Katie said.

Now she likes to talk to strangers too. Sometimes when Katie goes with the grownup dairy princesses to places such as a nursing home, Katie sings her song for the people.

Katie goes to school and plays at home like other girls her age. She is a good helper by watching her brother when her parents milk the 80 Holsteins they raise on their Lebanon farm that has 130 acres.

While the parents work in the barn the children sometimes make a house with the pillows on their sofa or they watch Sesame Street. But usually they ride their toys around the barn. Most of all they like to play with Katrina.

"Katrina is my favorite cow. She is very tame," Katie said. "We sit on her back and slide down."

Because Katrina is so tame, Katie likes to hook up the milker to her. Katrina is actually Katie's cousin's cow. When her cousin went to college, he asked Katie to take care of her because he knew Katie would love Katrina.

Katie goes to the Fredericksburg Elementary School in Northern Lebanon School District.

Sunshine encouraged Katie and Dustin play outside on Monday.

"Katrina's tame so I can milk her," Katie said about her favorite cow. She and her brother like to use Katrina for a sliding board.

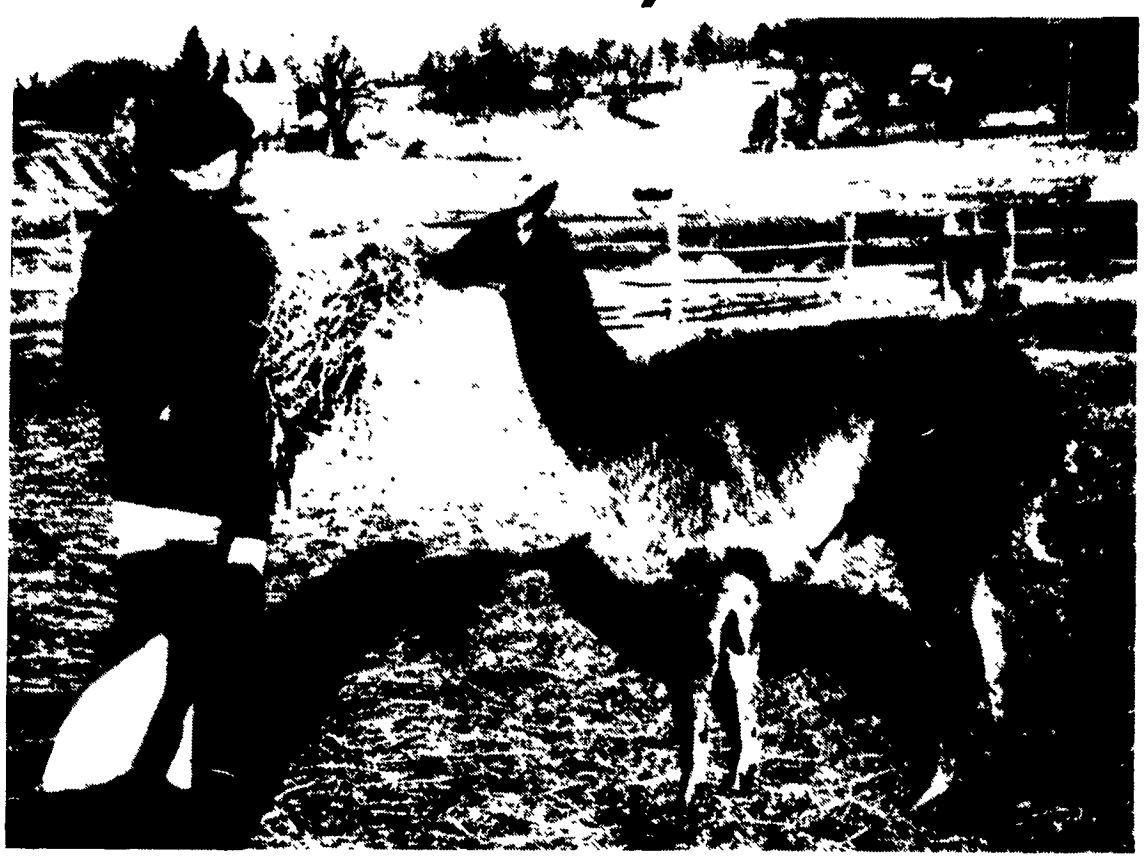
Wakefield Valley Boasts A Bit Of Peruvian Andes



Barbara Floreen puts her small farm to good use by raising llamas that have a lifespan of 30 to 40 years.

SHARON B. SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

NEW WINDSOR, Md. — There is a little bit of the Peruvian Andes in the fertile Wakefield Valley near New Windsor, Maryland. Barbara Floreen raises her llamas on a small farm that she and daughter, Noelle, share with a menagerie of animal companions.

For the past two years, Barbara Floreen has been learning about llamas the hard way — she just jumped right in and started from scratch.

"We had just bought the property," explained Barbara. A friend inquired, "What are you going to do with five acres?" Barbara's reply was, "We'll put it to work for us."

She said that someone suggested that they buy a pair of llamas to raise on the pasture ground. "So we did," she exclaimed.

Llamas have a lifespan of 30 to 40 years, and Barbara Floreen seems to be in this endeavor for the long haul. "I have become very attached to them," she said.

Barbara admitted that she knew nothing about raising these cousins to the camel, and learned by doing. "We're taking it one step at a time."

She quickly learned the type of fence needed, preferred foods, and general care through working with the animals on a day to day basis.

The loafing shed where the animals stay within the fenced pasture has a raised floor, "to keep their feet dry. They have a flat foot like a camel for walking on the desert," explained Barbara. She added that the worst chore is keeping their nails clipped. She recruits the neighborhood kids to help hold the llamas while the chore is completed. "We are hoping we can interest the Appalachian trail park system in llamas, because llamas feet don't break down the soil like a shod horse."

One look at llamas would convince those unfamiliar with them that they are fence jumpers. Up to the tip of their banana-shaped ears, they stand six feet or taller.

"They go under," explained Barbara. "They become liquid. That long neck goes under the bottom rail of the fence, and then the body rolls over. Rred wiggled out of there slick as a whistle."

Rred, Honey, and Fawn, so named for their coloring, are an interesting family. They exhibit a naturally curious character, particularly Fawn, just a baby at eight months old. Her parents are a bit more cautious, preferring to examine visitors from a distance.

"They are not quite as evil tempered as camels," commented Barbara. "They don't bite, and their breath doesn't smell as bad." She speaks from experience. It seems that llamas show their displeasure by spitting.

"They have four stomachs, and when it comes out of the third or fourth stomach, it will take you to your knees."

The llamas don't reserve spitting for outsiders, they also spit at each other. "Honey gave Rred a mouthful this morning," she said with a laugh.

"They are very communal animals," said Barbara. "One will eventually succumb to loneliness." She said that the llamas have no natural enemies, although people and dogs pose the greatest threats. When a strange dog entered their pasture, Barbara said she witnessed the protective nature of the llamas. "Rred and Honey had the baby so tight in between them, that I couldn't see anything but the baby's legs. And Honey was the aggressor."

Barbara said that between the mother and the newborn "cria," as the baby llama is referred to, "there is much talking." The sound that llamas make is similar to humming. "Fawn still talks to her mother a lot."

Barbara's llamas are registered with the International Llama Registry under the B-Noelle prefix to their names. Her llamas are domestics, bred here in the U.S. out of domestic parents. Some llamas are imported directly from the South American countries of Peru, Chile, and Ecuador. "Domestics have adjusted to the heat," she explained. In their natural habitat, high in the Andes Mountains, llamas thrive in the cool temperatures of altitudes that exceed 27,000 feet. "The imports have to adjust to altitude," she added.

Llamas are raised for a variety of purposes. They can be used as pack animals, and can carry a load of 60 to 70 pounds.

"They will pull a cart."

They are used for meat animals and are prized for their wool.

"You brush or comb them to get the wool, instead of shear," said Barbara. "It takes two years to grow a full coat, and they are subject to sunburn."

Horse breeders sometimes purchase llamas to accompany thoroughbreds on flights, as their nature has a calming effect on the racers.

Llamas come in a variety of colors and sizes - small, medium, and large. "Pure white llamas are very special, and the Harlequins are very popular." The Harlequin llamas have a mottled coloring, parucularly on their bellies and legs.

Prices of llamas vary from coast to coast. "In Oregon, a good proven female could bring $60,000. Here, the same animal might bring $10,000 to $15,000." Barbara reported that a seven- to ten-month-old male would fetch $3,000 to $4,000 in her area. Fawn is the first llama that will be offered for sale by Barbara Floreen. The female llama is eight months old with a reddish brown coloring, and gentle disposition. Barbara plans to enter new blood into the line in her breeding endeavors.

Barbara said there was "nothing to read" about the care and raising of her exotic livestock. She soon learned that the best ration is a mixture of grains and llama pellets. "They don't need much protein." She gives them 8 to 10 percent protein and includes trace minerals.

She feeds them timothy hay - "no alfalfa. Fawn likes me to hold a pat of hay while she eats. She hasn't started grain yet."

As for special treats, Barbara said "There's not much. They don't go for apples, oranges or sugar. But they love sweet corn. They'll saw through an ear like a box of chocolates."

BORDER CONSTRUCTION

Quilt Quality More Important Than Quantity

Eshelman has also made many braided rugs.

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

FORT LOUDON (Franklin Co.) — Edna Peck Eshelman has completed 23 quilts in her lifetime. That doesn't sound like a lot, considering she's 70 years old. But if you saw the quilts, you'd realize that this is a case of quality taking precedence over quantity.

Each of Eshelman's quilts is a signed, dated and titled work of art. She keeps a record book with a photo and explanation of each quilt.

Her most celebrated quilt to date is one titled "Burgoyne's Surrender." Around the border, spelled out in red and white blocks are "Fort Loudon," "1911" (the year of her birth), "1981" (the year she made the quilt), "Edna Peck" and "Eshelman."

In 1987, the quilt was entered in a national contest sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution and held in Tacoma, Washington. It earned a fourth place ribbon. The DAR, of which Eshelman is a member, then sent it to Washington, D.C. to be displayed during the Continental Congress. It was then sent back to Eshelman.

A year later, the DAR asked for it again, and sent it to Philadelphia to hang in Independence Hall for a week.

One of Eshelman's favorite quilts is a sampler of various flowers in which each hand-appliqued block is named. "The latticework was hard to quilt," she said.

She created her own patterns for a Month Quilt, made in 1984-85, in which each 15-inch block depicts a scene from a different month.

She learned the art of quilting from her mother, who had made quilts for each of her own nine children.

"Quilting has always been my favorite hobby, from my early teens," Eshelman wrote in her record book. "I can always learn from others and find my mistakes, then try to better myself."

"We can't find any," her friend, Ethel Rotz, said of the mistakes to which Eshelman referred.

Eshelman recently donated a quilt to the St. Thomas Lutheran Church, where she and Rotz are members. The quilt was displayed at Chambersburg Mall. "We had an auction," Rotz said, "and it brought over $300."

Eshelman knows where all her quilts are except that one. "They're all in the family," she said. She has one daughter, four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

She and her husband, Merle, farmed for 35 years near St. Thomas. Eshelman said she didn't do as much needlework during those years as she does now.

Quilts are not Eshelman's only artistic pursuit. Over the years, she has made at least 200 Crazy Patch velvet top pillows completely by hand. Many of them have been awarded first place ribbons at local fairs.

She also makes hooked rugs, sometimes using a printed pattern and sometimes drawing the pattern herself.

"I learned hooked rugging from remembering how my mother did it," she said. She has sold a few rugs to neighbors, but "I can't (make) enough for them and the family," she said. One large hooked rug in soft, muted colors took her two years, "on and off."

Her braided rugs lie perfectly flat. "I took some lessons," she explained. "The woman who taught me said, 'Your first one won't be right, but don't give up.'"

Eshelman once made an 8-by-10-foot braided rug of all new wool.

"I'll never do another one," she said. "It was too hard on the arms. My sewing room was too small, and I had to take it to the basement after a certain point."

Besides the quilts, pillows and rugs, Eshelman also makes dolls and stuffed animals, paints designs on old irons, and creates pictures with sea shells.

Her current project is piecing an Improved Nine Patch quilt entirely by hand. "The curved work is hard to do on the machine," she explained. A Log Cabin quilt top, already pieced, awaits quilting.

Eshelman's most celebrated quilt is "Burgoyne's Surrender," which has been displayed in Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia.

Vegetable, Fruit Growers Learn What's New

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — There's tremendous potential in marketing special appeal vegetables but there is also tremendous risk, participants learned at the Pennsylvania Vegetable Conference and Trade Show held at Hershey on January 29 through 31.

Rick Van Vranken, a New Jersey extension agent, told growers that the key to success is to test the market and start small.

"Consumers want quality, variety, and anything different," Vranken told those attending the workshop on marketing special appeal vegetables.

"Anything that is different in shape, size, color or taste can find a niche in the market," Vranken said.

The types of specialty produce and vegetables that have great potential are those with tropical or ethnic ties. Consumers want baby and miniature vegetables, herbs, edible flowers and organic food.

Vranken cautioned growers that they must consider the difficulties with special appeal vegetables.

"There is little information available on growing the many varieties. Few pesticides if any should be used."

The vegetables also have post harvest problems because they are extremely perishable and packaging and labeling is usually a problem.

Packaging can often increase the plant's value. This was shown by the edible lettuce greens grown in the New Jersey area. Those sold in bunches brought only a few pennies for the growers while those packaged in a carton sold for several dollars.

Studies show that vegetables and herbs that are packaged with a small pamphlet that tells how the vegetable is grown brings more lucrative results. And a recipe that is supplied with the vegetable leads to more sales.

Vranken encourages growers to market products directly to restaurants, health food stores, gourmet shops, chain stores and consumers.

Hanging Baskets For Profit

Vegetables and fruit growers who want to add to their profits by raising hanging plants gathered some tips from Lamar Esbenshade, who has been in the Lititz greenhouse business for 32 years.

Esbenshade illustrated his talk with slides to show that the way a basket is hung in a greenhouse affects the plants beneath it. He cautioned growers to match the crop below with those above. Both need the same temperatures.

"Hang them north to south so that the shadows move. This is extremely important," Esbenshade said, "otherwise the crop underneath will not get enough sun."

It is best to hang the baskets over the aisle so that the water drips in the aisle instead of on top of the plants beneath them.

"Don't overcrowd the greenhouse with baskets or you have a problem," Esbenshade said.

From experience he finds that hanging geraniums are now more popular than fucshia. Impatients and tuberous begonias are next.

"Try mixing plants in hanging baskets," Esbenshade said. "Mix in bridal veil and dusty miller, but be careful what you put together or you may crowd things."

Although some hanging baskets look great when first planted, they become unbalanced later.

"You must be concerned with what the plant will look like in the months ahead, for ultimately that is what increases business."

To make sure that the plant looks healthy later, Esbenshade advised that slow release fertilizer should be added to a good, porous mix.

Ten-inch baskets generally do better than smaller ones.

Wall baskets are extremely popular.

Color trends lean toward pastel colors. "Red is dominate but losing popularity because pastels show up better under patio lights at night — and that seems to be where most people have hanging baskets," he said.

During the conference, more than 100 commercial exhibitors set up displays to show the latest equipment, pesticides, and products available to vegetable and fruit growers.

Food Watch

Fruit and vegetable growers find themselves in a nationwide crisis of confidence. To counteract the unfounded fears of the alar scare that gripped the nation several years ago, Food Watch was founded as a nationwide program to build confidence in food safety.

There is a growing concern in agriculture that a wedge is being driven between farmers and the technology they need to meet increasing demands for food and fiber.

During the Thanksgiving season, a TV commercial was aired to build confidence in food safety.

The program is launched by the Agriculture Council of America and is supported by contributions.

Growers are encouraged to display and abide by the Food Watch pledge. The pledge states:

- We believe all people have a right to healthful, abundant food.
- Food that is nutritious.
- Food that is produced and handled safely.
- Food that is grown with a deep respect for the environment.
- Food that is affordable.
- Food that will ensure our future and our children's future.
- Because of these beliefs, I pledge:
- To use products properly.
- To read and follow all label directions.
- To produce, process and market food responsibly.
- To take every precaution and safety measure within my power and encourage others to do the same.

Promotion of Pennsylvania Vegetables

Daniel Schantz, who chairs the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program, told growers that the organization has worked hard this past year to send out press kits, food articles, recipes, and special issues on fruit and vegetables to increase sales.

Point of purchase material, posters, ad slicks, logos, and a nutritional brochure and recipes are available to growers.

"You must be willing to speak with reporters and give your side of the story on controversial sub-

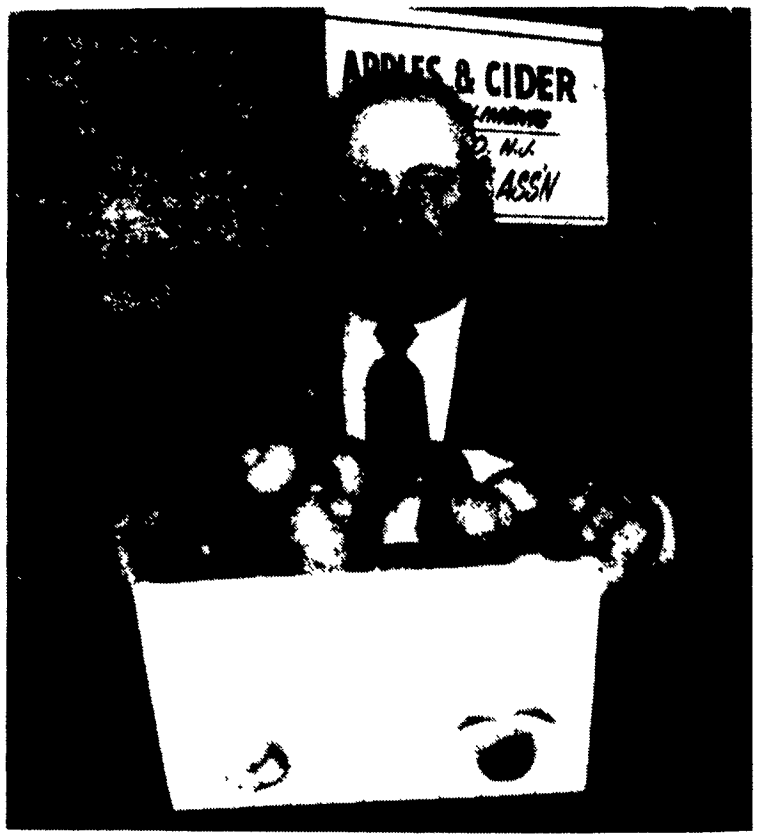
June Alexander of Van Well Nursery shows 37 varieties of apples. For 35 years, Alexander has been in fruit tree sales in the Ohio area. Her favorite apples are Braeburn, Red Delicious, and Jon A Gold.

Pennsylvania Apple Queen Emily Lott of Biglerville came to the conference to learn new techniques to make her parents' fruit farm more successful.



During the convention, Jack Mickey was elected president of the Pennsylvania Horticulture Association. "This is a valuable conference," Mickey said. "Those who attend get their pesticide license up to date and receive credits for many of the courses."

Susan and Robert McCutcheon of Frederick, Maryland, offer free samples of their jellies. The most popular is black raspberry, but strawberry, peach, quince, and pumpkin butter flavors are also favorites. The McCutcheons offer mail-order services on sparkling cider, apple juice, and salad dressings in flavors such as vidalia onion and dijon vinegar.

jects," Schantz told the growers. "But above all produce quality products."

Schantz told the growers, "This past year has been a real turnaround. The board has worked hard on your behalf. Positive remarks have outweighed negative ones."

When Richard Haas tasted this cider, he surmised it was made with a rotary press. He was right. Hess, the owner of Cherry Hill Orchards in Lancaster, said he can always tell the type of press used when he tests cider.

Vegetable Marketing in the '90s

Rob Amsterdam of Mickey Cohen & Son in Biglerville, a broker and shipper of produce, encouraged growers to view the obstacles of the industry as opportunities to exploit.

"Per capita consumption of vegetables is up from 1988 when $32 billion of produce sales was done at grocery stores. That has now changed since customers such as McDonald's now purchase two percent of all lettuce grown and 1 percent of tomatoes in the total industry.

Transportation and labor will affect the market indirectly Amsterdam cautioned. "It's difficult to maintain seasonal help."

Another concern is food safety. "Pesticide residue is one of the greatest concerns of the public. It's a challenge for retail to be more progressive. Growers, packers, and shippers must be there for the proper support to the retail producer," he said.

Consider Food Safety

NEWARK, DE— Microwave cooking has added speed and convenience to meal preparation. But there remains concern among food scientists about foodd safety and microwave cooking.

According to Dr. Sue Snider, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension food and nutrition specialist, studies indicate that not all microwave ovens produce a uniform temperature sufficient to destroy food-borne pathogens. Although thisis not a new problem, it continues to be of concern, especially when preparing meat, poultry and fish.

Snider says there are many things a cook can do to overcome uneven oven temperatures. And using these cooking techniques with the microwave oven has the added benefit of improving the palatability of the food.

"Following the guidelines will not only ensure food safety, but will also enhance the quality of the food," Snider says. "You won't have to worry about foods that may be tough and overcooked in one place and icy cold in another."

The specialist offers these tips to use when cooking meats in the microwave.

- Debone large pieces of meat since bone can shield the meat around it.
- Use a covered dish and add a little liquid. Steam helps kill bacteria and ensures uniform heating.
- Use 50 percent power for large pieces of meat. The longer time allows heat to reach the interior of the food without overcooking outer areas.
- Stir the food or turn the dish or food item several times during cooking.
- Never partially cook food. If you combine microwave cooking with conventional preparation such as roasting or grilling, immediately transfer the cooked food to conventional heat.
- Don't cook whole, stuffed poultry in the microwave. The bones and density of the bird interfere with cooking evenly.

Cook's Question

Vegetarian Lasagna

2 lasagna noodles
2 medium carrots, peeled and bias cup
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons cooking oil
¾ cup extra-thick spaghetti sauce
2 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
½ teaspoon dried basil, crushed
¾ cup sliced mushrooms
½ cup zucchini, cut into bite-size sticks
½ package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well drained
1 cup cream-style cottage cheese, drained
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 beaten egg
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
1 tablespoon sliced pitted olives
Whole chili peppers

Cook lasagna noodles in boiling, salted water about 10 minutes or until tender; drain. Cut noodles crosswise into thirds.

In skillet, cook carrots, onion, and garlic in hot oil, covered, about 4 minutes or until onion is tender. Stir in spaghetti sauce, water, oregano, ½ teaspoon salt, and basil; simmer, covered about 15 minutes or until carrots are tender.

Reserve a few mushrooms for garnish. Stir in zucchini and remaining mushrooms; cook, uncovered about 5 minutes or until the zucchini is tender.

Meanwhile, squeeze excess liquid from spinach. In a bowl, stir together cottage cheese, Parmesan and egg. In a greased 8x4x2 loaf pan, layer half of each of the noodles, placed crosswise, spinach, cottage cheese mixture, spaghetti sauce mixture, and mozzarella; repeat layers except for mozzarella.

Bake covered in a 375 degree oven for 35 minutes. Top with remaining mozzarella, olives and mushrooms. Return to oven for 2 to 3 minutes to melt cheese. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Garnish with chili peppers, if desired. Makes 2 or 3 servings. Can be doubled or tripled, just don't cut the lasagne noodles, and bake in a 8x8x2-inch or 13x8x2-inch pan.

Goals — What Are Yours?

If someone asked you today, where you would want to be five years from today, what could you answer? Where do you want your farm and family to be in five years? Do you have a plan for that? How effective are you at making decisions to meet those goals?

To help Crawford County farm families in assessing and meeting their goals for their farm business, a day long workshop entitled "Goals - Where Are Yours?" has been scheduled for Wednesday, February 20, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Days Inn, Meadville. The program is sponsored by Penn State University of Crawford County and features Penn State University Farm Management specialists Larry Jenkins and William McSweeney.

They will be discussing the following: the necessity of goals for a farm business; how to set goals and their use in farm planning and management factors to consider to meet family goals.

In a time of low milk prices and unstable costs, goals are all the more important in order to maintain an orderly business, keep it strong and to be able to have an orderly transfer to the next generation. Remember, goals and planning don't just happen, they take time; so take time out and learn something new.

If you want more information, please call Alan Travis at the Crawford County Cooperative Extension Office, 814-336-1151, Ext. 260.

ANSWER — Betty from Pennsylvania requested a bologna recipe for venison that tastes like Seltzer's Lebanon Bologna. Thanks to Josephine Matenus of Dallas for sending the following.

Deer Bologna

5 pounds ground venison
5 teaspoons tender quick cure salt
1½ teaspoons hickory smoke salt
3 teaspoons mustard seed
3 teaspoons coarse black pepper
3 teaspoons garlic salt

Mix well and put in 2 or 3 separate rolls. Put in refrigerator for 3 days. Cover wth plastic wrap. Bake in a 9x13-inch pan with a wire rack so grease will drip. Cooking time is 60 minutes at 350 degrees.

ANSWER — Cordelia Wolfe of Seven Valleys requested a recipe for peanut butter pie. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Peanut Butter Pie

Crust:
1 cup Cinnamon Crisp cereal cumbs
3 tablespoons melted butter

Filling:
1 cup creamy peanut butter
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
1 tablespoon vanilla

Mix crumbs and butter together to make crust. Press into 9-inch pie pan. Place in preheated oven for 7 minutes at 350 degrees. Remove and cool. Mix together first 3 filling ingredients. Mix well and add next 3 ingredients. Mix well and pour into crust. Chill 4 to 5 hours or until set. Top with melted thinned hot fudge topping. Chill again about 30 minutes. Serves 8.

Farm Women Societies

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon County Society of Farm Women Group 20 held its monthly meeting at the home of Sarah Funck.

The program for the evening was a county auction with the program committee serving as auctioneer. The items sold were an interesting variety and everyone enjoyed the auctioneers' talents.

A trip is planned to the Dutch Apple in early February.

Three volunteers from Society 20 planned to help Boscov's with their inventory and donate the wages to the Cancer Fund.

The next meeting will be held on February 11 at the Country Apple with members and sweethearts.

Wakefield Valley

One other important lesson about llamas is the correct pronunciation of the word. They are llamas (pronounced yamas), from Spanish, which pronounces the double L with a Y sound.

For more information about Barbara Floreen's llamas, she may be reached at (301) 635-2225. If you pay Barbara and her llamas a visit at their Wakefield Valley farm, remember to say YAMA, and don't stand too close - they might spit on you (the llamas, not Barbara).

As an added note of interest - The first annual spring All Llama Spotlight Auction will be held in March, at Auction Square, Alternate Route 40, one mile west of Boonsboro, Maryland. A hands-on auction preview will take place on Friday, March 22, and the auction will begin at 1 p.m. on Saturday, March 23.

Animals from leading breeders on the East Coast have been consigned, and will be sold "under the spotlight." Consignment deadline is March 4, 1991 (postmarked). The arena seating capacity is 700. A picture brochure is available. For more information, contact Auctions, Auctions, Auctions, Inc., (301) 432-7653.

Beef Ambassador

The South Central Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association is sponsoring a beef ambassador this year. The ambassador will be selected by a panel of judges at the York Co. 4-H Center during March at a time convenient to the candidates, committee and judges. The ambassador will be named at the annual beef banquet on March 19, 1991.

Contestants must be from a family producing beef in Pennsylvania or be actively taking part in a 4-H or FFA beef project; must live in Pennsylvania and must have reached his/her 16th birthday by March 1, 1991, and not have reached his/her 21st birthday by that date; he/she must have his/her parent's or guardian's consent; and must be single.

The contestants will appear at the York Co. 4-H Center. Judges there will score the individuals on the basis of appearance, poise, personality, and knowledge of the cattle industry.

Mail entries to Nancy Livingston, 5460 Davidsburg Rd., Dover, PA 17315. Entry deadline is March 6.

Twin Valley Receives National Awards

Again this year, the Twin Valley FFA chapter received awards at the national FFA convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

The chapter received a silver medal in the national chapter rating contest. This places the Twin Valley Chapter among the top 300 chapters in the United States. The chapter also received a bronze award in the BOAC competition for community involvement.

Accepting the awards were chapter President Keith McGowan, and treasurer Kim Hubert, as well as chapter members Brian Putt and Mike Kurtz. Also attending the national FFA convention was chapter advisor Ronald Frederick, and Ann Kline who received the American Degree. Eric Marshall, 1990 TVHS graduate and current PA FFA state treasurer, served as one of the official PA voting delegates.

The national FFA convention has been held in Kansas City every year since its founding there in 1928. The national chapter rating is based upon involvement on the chapter and its members in community service, leadership, project development, scholarship, participation in state and national activities, etc. BOAC (Building Our American Communities) measures the chapter's involvement in community service activities.

The American Degree is the highest award available to an FFA member. It is presented to out-of-school members who excel in leadership and career development.

This year's FFA convention also featured lively debates by delegates on representation and the eventual passing of a new delegate plan which will greatly increase the number of delegates at the convention from 200 to 475. Delegates also debated a new FFA creed, but decided to revise the existing creed instead.

Other issues facing the delegates were designed to move the FFA away from production agriculture. The over 24,000 FFA members and guests who attended the convention also heard dynamic speakers such as Joe Clark, the ex-high school principal from New Jersey.

Hess and Marshall Win Area FFA Contests

Erica Hess, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hess of Plowville, and Ryan Marshall, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Readinger of Reinholds, were recent winners of area FFA contests held at the Lebanon Fairgrounds.

Erica, a senior FFA member at Twin Valley, won first place in pleasure horse with Heather Dougherty placed sixth, Jason Mantz placed eighth, Brian McGowan ninth.

Others that competed were Ray Diamond, Marcie Baker, Ben Dodd, John Parsons and Andy Parsons. Twin Valley also had the first place team. This contest required participants to place three classes of horses, identify tack, and take a written test on horse management.

Ryan placed first in the dairy foods contest with Dave Setly placing third. Twin Valley also had the second place team.

Contestants had to identify off-flavors in milk samples, score milk samples, identify cheeses, complete California mastitis tests on milk samples, identify problems in milking equipment, and take a written test on milk quality and marketing.

Andy Mast and Tom Bernard competed in the area agronomy contest. These contestants had to identify weed and crop plants, judge hay and forage samples, complete a soil test form and interpret soil test results, and take a written test on production of agronomic crops.

Keith McGowan competed in the area agricultural mechanics contest. Keith had to take a written test as well as demonstrate the ability to perform agricultural mechanics skills.

WILSON YORKSHIRES
Yorkshire - Duroc - Large White
We are proud to have exhibited the 1st, 2nd and 4th top yielding Yorkshire carcass barrow at the recent Keystone International. Litter mate was 2nd at York County Carcass Contest. Also 2nd top cutting Duroc barrow at K.I.L.E.
The Yorkshires and Swedish pedigreed hogs: These animals offer leaness and lots of muscle. They are backed up by super productivity in Sweden. Crossed with American bloodlines which are heavy-boned, thick made productivity oriented. These boars have excellent nipple quality with a desire to breed.
We feel our Yorkshire and duroc boars have lots of good to offer the swine industry. If you sell grade and you yield, the Swedish hogs can help put money in your pocket. Scan figures by Mike Cherchuck. Real Time Ultrasound, most accurate scanning available today.
Boars $350-$550. Commercial open gilts $40 over market. Free delivery within a 100 mi. radius.

ALUMINUM FOIL INSULATION GUARANTEED FOR LIFE

Direct factory to you sale on 1 million square feet of lifetime Radiant Barrier aluminum foil reflective insulation. Designed for poultry & livestock buildings, metal buildings, hog farms, horse barns, cold storage houses, etc... Update & insulate your buildings. Makes a cleaner & healthier environment, lower mortality rate.You will never have to reinsulate again. Buy any amount for 23¢ a square foot while it lasts. Farmers, growers, contractors & dealers inquiries welcome.

10 REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER RADIANT BARRIER REFLECTIVE INSULATION

1) Our reflective insulation has an insulating value equivalent to conventional types of insulation 8 times as thick.
2) Completely eliminates condensation, even in metal buildings
3) Controls Heat - Keeps environment considerably cooler in Summer months and warmer in the Winter months. This will result in lower utility costs and healthier livestock.
4) Specially coated outer surfaces can take power washing
5) Resistant to stains, mildew, chemicals, abrasions and animal waste.
6) Light reflective, provides a brighter work place with less lighting requirements.
7) Tough and durable, structurally very strong while still remaining flexible. Not affected by vermin, birds or any rodents
8) Ease of installation and maintenance, there are no special clothing requirements needed like gloves, masks or eye protection. all you need is a staple gun and razor knife.
9) Our reflective insulation surpasses all building code requirements. Fire resistant NFPA class A. UBC class 1. Flame spread 25. Smoke density 15.
10) Our reflective insulation is not affected by moisture, so you will never have to reinsulate again. Radiant Barrier has been designed to last forever. A smart investment that will pay you forever.

Wet brewers grain is more than a good feed. It's a good business ingredient.

Each day, up to 100,000 U.S. dairy cows feed on rations containing wet brewers grain. That's because their owners know it minimizes feed costs while it maximizes production.

Wet brewers grain is a high-protein feed ingredient. It's always fresh, because it's delivered directly to your dairy. It fits into most programs, is easy to handle, and easy to store.

Pillsbury

Call us today. One of our professional feed consultants will help you work wet brewers grain into your ration, so you can make it a profitable ingredient for your business.

E-Z Dumper

TURN YOUR PICKUP INTO A DUMP TRUCK IN LESS THAN ONE HOUR.

E-Z Dumper is the original hydraulically operated dump unit for pickup trucks. With E-Z Dumper you can unload your pickup truck bed in under thirty seconds with the turn of a key. You'll never have to unload your truck by hand again!

The E-Z Dumper can hold and unload up to 4,000 lbs. or two cubic yards of firewood, topsoil, gravel, mulch, grain, or whatever, depending on the weight-carrying capacity of your truck.

Easy To Install And Operate.
Do-it-yourself installation of E-Z Dumper is a breeze. No alterations are needed for most trucks. Just slide the dumper into your truckbed, secure it with bolts and holes already on your truck, and you're ready to go. We even include the hydraulic fluid!

A Durable Investment.
E-Z Dumper is designed to take a beating from the toughest loads, from two yards of cordwood to two tons of crushed stone, while providing you with years of reliable service.

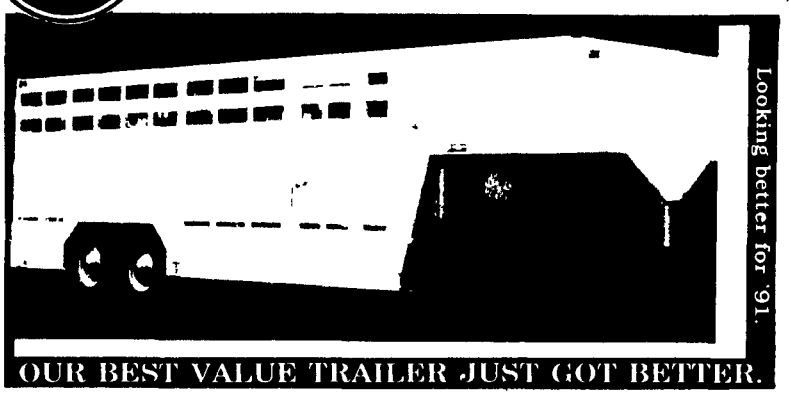
WRANGLER



OUR BEST VALUE TRAILER JUST GOT BETTER.

The new Wrangler. More aerodynamic. Better looking. And the strongest Wrangler yet. With top-quality components and rugged construction, this Wrangler is the best trailer value you can find.

- LIGHTWEIGHT- Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs
- DURABILITY- Eby trailers are built tough Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer

Weight loss, resulting in poor body condition during early lactation, cuts down her ability to make milk and your ability to make money.

Ultra:Lac 22 combines the unique benefits of Megalac™ rumen bypass fat with a specialized blend of proteins, vitamins, minerals, sodium bicarbonate, even flavor enhancers, to remove the major limiting factors that could be holding back your top producers.

Ultra:Lac 22 is an enriched "package" of top-dress feed supplements designed to work together to increase peak production and lactation persistency. And because it's a top-dress, you can feed it to cows that need it most – top producers, thin cows, problem breeders.

Wendy Will is the new state fair queen. She represented the Somerset County Fair.

State Fair Queen Chosen, Officers Elected

FLEETWOOD, (Berks Co.) — The 79th Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs has elected Wayne Readinger, Fleetwood, as its 1991 president. Readinger has a wide area of involvement on the county, state, and national level. He has been active in the Reading Fair serving on the Board for 42 years. Readinger resides on the family farm he was born on and is the third generation to do so. Wayne and his wife, Helen, have been active in Extension and 4-H Club activities. His children were involved in 4-H Club work, showing beef at the Reading and Kutztown Fairs and the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. In 1968 he was elected Master of the Pennsylvania State Grange serving three two-year terms. During this time he served as a Lobbyist for Agriculture and Rural Pennsylvania. He has served as a member of the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania State University Agricultural Advisory Council and is also a member of Executive Committee of the Council of Farm Organizations. in 1972 he was appointed by then Governor Shapp to serve as a member of the Farm Show Commission. He has been a member of the State Fair Association Board for six years.

Elected to the office of vice president is Fr. John W. Mignot of Reynoldsville, the representative of Jefferson Co. Fair. Continuing as secretary-treasurer is Beverly Snyder, Emlenton, from the Venango Co. Fair. Immediate past president is Rolland Herring, Chalk Hill, representing both Fayette Co. and Mountain Area Fairs.

Keynote speaker for the convention was Myles Johnson, International Association of Fairs and Expositions president, of Spencer, IA.

Other speakers at the convention included William Turnquist of the Los Angeles County Fair, Pomona, CA, Wayne McCary of Eastern States Exposition, West Springfield, MA, Wilson Sparks of the Georgia National Fair and Exposition, Perry, GA and Bill Carpender of Midway Caravan, Freeville, NY.

Various round-table discussions and seminars were held on a wide variety of Handicapped, Promotion Ideas, and Special Days to name a few.

Rolland Herring was named Fairman of the Year. Herring has been with the Fayette County Fair for 37 years. He is the immediate past president of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs and has been very active in the fair business at the local, state and national level. He has worked with the International Association of Fairs and Expositions on various committees and round table leader positions. He was selected as one of the 20 judges from all over the United States and Canada to judge the exhibits for the national convention in Las Vegas this year. In 1988 he was selected to be a Certified Fair Executive for the IAFE. Rolland was first elected to Penn State-Fayette's Advisory Board in 1984. His significant contributions to Penn State span three decades and two major academic units of the University. He has also served as a member of the Pennsylvania Council Cooperative Extension Advisory Board and many local and county organizations.

The PSACF Queen Contest was held during the annual convention. Wendy Will, representing Somerset County Fair, was chosen to be the 1991 PSACF Queen. Wendy is the daughter of James and Mary Will of Berlin. She will represent the state association at fairs and functions who request her appearance throughout the state during the 1991 fair season. She was chosen from 32 contestants from fairs throughout the state. Runner-up in the competition is Marcie Lynn Cole of Wyoming County Fair. Marcie is the daughter of Donald and Gail Cole of Tunkhannock.

"MEMBERSHIP IN DAIRYLEA MEANS... MORE LEGISLATIVE REPRESENTATION!"

Wellsboro, PA

Now, more than ever, dairy farmers need strong leaders who can represent their interests on public policy issues. Because so many decisions affecting farm operations are being made off the farm - by federal, state and local governments - Dairylea Cooperative has made a whole-hearted commitment to actively represent its members' best interests.

In fact, Dairylea President Clyde Rutherford recently received the 1990 Cooperative Statesmanship Award in recognition of his national involvement and leadership role in policies important to the farming community.

This level of representation is among the many reasons that dairy farmers like Erick and Dixie Coolidge feel they are getting more by being members of Dairylea Cooperative.

Today, and as you build for the future, you need a reliable partner who can provide you with a competitive price for your milk, offer you programs and services that can make an impact on your bottom line, and be an effective voice on public policy issues. That partner is Dairylea Cooperative.

Among the many programs and services available to Dairylea Cooperative members are:

- Milk Check Direct Deposit
- Member Loan Program
- Energy Loan Program
- Farm Management Program
- Quality and Production Incentive Programs
- Top-rated Insurance Coverages
- Member Pension Plan
- Flexible Benefits Packages

Any way you look at it, membership in Dairylea Cooperative means more for you. Give us a call today!

Air Makeup Heater Gives 400,000 BTU Output

LANSING, Mich. — Aerotech, Inc. introduces the XL 1800AT air makeup heater that mounts on the outside of poultry and livestock buildings and delivers 400,000 BTUs of air makeup heat at nearly 100 percent efficiency.

In poultry operations, the XL 1800AT is designed to replace two 200,000 BTU hanging heaters for warm room heating, or as supplemental heater for use with brooders. This heater delivers both the fresh air and heat needed.

The XL 1800 AT features a stainless steel burner with electronic ignition, which allows for smoother, more efficient, and more reliable starting and running.

"With the innovations we have incorporated into the XL 1800 AT we believe it is the top air makeup heater in the industry," said Robert Mitchell, president of Aerotech. "A lot of research went into producing a product that will solve producers considerable money in the long run."

Outside-mounted heaters are often preferred by producers because of safety, easier access, less maintenance, and more usable space in the building. Also, they are less expensive to buy and operate than other types of heaters.

Other important features of the XL 1800AT include full safety protection with air flow detection, high limit swith and flame sensor; a sealed control box mounted separate from the heater; and a backdraft damper that prevents heat loss between cycles.

To provide efficient airflow, the heater has a ½ horsepower motor with a high-impact polypropylene airfoil prop.

Both LP and natural gas units are available.

In addition, Aerotech markets a full-line of environmental control products including fans, evaporative cooling systems, heaters and controls. For more information, contact Aerotech, Inc., 929 Terminal Road, Lansing, MI 48960, (800) 227-AERO or (517) 323-2930.

Ag Security Area Enrolls A Million Acres

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— Russell and Cleo Claypool of RD 1, Worthington, Armstrong County, recently enrolled the one millionth acre of farmland in a commonwealth agricultural security area (ASA).

Claypool and two others were instrumental in getting an ag security area formed in North Buffalo Township last year by circulating the necessary signup petitions. That area now encompasses 3,408 acres on 33 farms.

More than 10,860 farmers in 51 counties have joined ASAs in Pennsylvania since 1981, when the Legislature authorized their formation. The total land enrolled in ag security areas now stands at 1,075,197 acres.

An ASA is created when township supervisors approve a petition presented by farmers who collectively own 500 or more acres of viable farmland. The ASAs are reviewed and re-established every seven years.

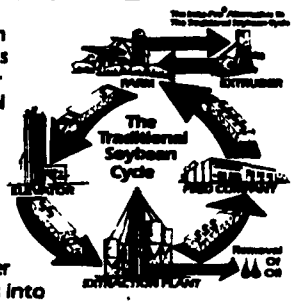
In addition to becoming eligible to apply for an easement purchase under the state's Farmland Preservation Program, farms in ASAs are protected from unreasonably restrictive local agricultural ordinances. The right to farm is also strengthened under an ASA, giving farmers added protection against nuisance ordinances.

Claypool's 280-acre dairy farm has been in his family for five generations and is now operated by his son Jerry. They received a citation from Governor Robert P. Casey during opening-day ceremonies at the State Farm Show earlier this month.

Individuals interested in ag security areas should write to the Bureau of Farmland Protection, Pa. Department of Agriculture, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, (717) 783-3192.

Pork Producers Consider An Alternative

Traditional soybean processing methods involve chemical or mechanical removal of the oil from the seed followed by heating of the remaining meal.



In contrast, the INSTA-PRO extruder processes soybeans into a quality protein and energy source with none of the natural oil removed.

It's the right time to apply lime

Lime application during the winter allows the limestone time to react and gives you the advantage of rich, pH-balanced soil for your spring planting. Winter ground conditions also reduce soil compaction and rutting during spreading.

Dauphin DHIA Annual Meeting Held

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — The Dauphin County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) recently held their annual banquet at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center, Dauphin.

The banquet is an opportunity for recognition of DHIA members and a time for socializing.

In Dauphin County, there were 51 herds on test in 1990, an increase of eight herds from 1989. In addition, there are 23 other herds on either AM/PM or owner-sampler test. Dauphin County has approximately two-thirds of its herds on some type of DHI test program. This is one of the highest percentage participation rates of any county in the state.

Year-end statistics show that 3,562 cows were on test, producing an average 16, 649 pounds of milk, 608 pounds of butterfat, and 538 pounds of protein per cow.

Top herds were honored at the meeting. Toby T. Farm, Halifax, was the high milk production and protein herd. Owner Tom Tobias, received recognition for his herd average of 21,536 pounds of milk and 697 pounds of protein. High herd for protein production was Restful Acres, Hershey. Owner Frank Greybill Jr., was recognized for 801 pounds of protein production.

The herd with the lowest somatic cell count was Oellara Farm, Hershey. Their cows averaged 139,000 somatic cell count for 1990.

Recognition was also made for herds with the most improvement in production. Stoney Lawn Farms, Middletown. Howard, Jay, and Ron Kopp had the most improved milk production. Their Holstein cows increased production by an average of 2,159 pounds. The herd of Stanley and Ty Long, Hershey, had the most improvement in protein (60 pounds) and butterfat (68 pounds).

Association Elects President

PITTSBURGH (Allegheny Co.) — The Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs (PSACF) recently elected A. Wayne Readinger, of Fleetwood, to a 2-year term as its president.

Readinger, past master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, was named to the position during the county fair association's 79th annual convention, held at the Green Tree Marriott, in Pittsburgh.

More than 1,100 members of the association registered for the 3-day convention, which was held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Showmen's Association. The PASCF is an organization representing people involved with the state's 114 county fairs.

Also elected to PSACF offices for 2-year terms were John . Mignot, Dubois, as vice president, and Beverly Snyder, of Emlenton, as secretary-treasurer.

In other business, Wendy Will, of Berlin, was named 1991 PSACF Fair Queen. Will, the daughter of James and Mary Will, was selected from a field of 32 entries.

Cimarron VR
Extra Leafy Alfalfa

- Cimarron VR -
New, improved, better. An advanced alfalfa variety built on award winning forage quality. Extra leafiness, heavy terminal buds, early spring growth, rapid recovery, and full season production.
A valuable asset to any high quality forage production program.

Cimarron Performance Update

There is some mighty fine alfalfa to be found in Blair county Pennsylvania, and the same goes for surrounding counties, too. One alfalfa field worthy of special note is on the farm of Harold & Harry Longenecker of RD 2, Williamsburg, PA. The Longeneckers started with the original Cimarron alfalfa and moved on to Cimarron VR to get the yield and quality forage they need to feed their 250 cow herd. Cimarron VR gives them both.

on farm after farm in the region.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
★ Introductory Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows·

*5 yr - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 ry - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit

Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and caries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.

* Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450 00
We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets
NEW price on ramps & carriers - $200 00

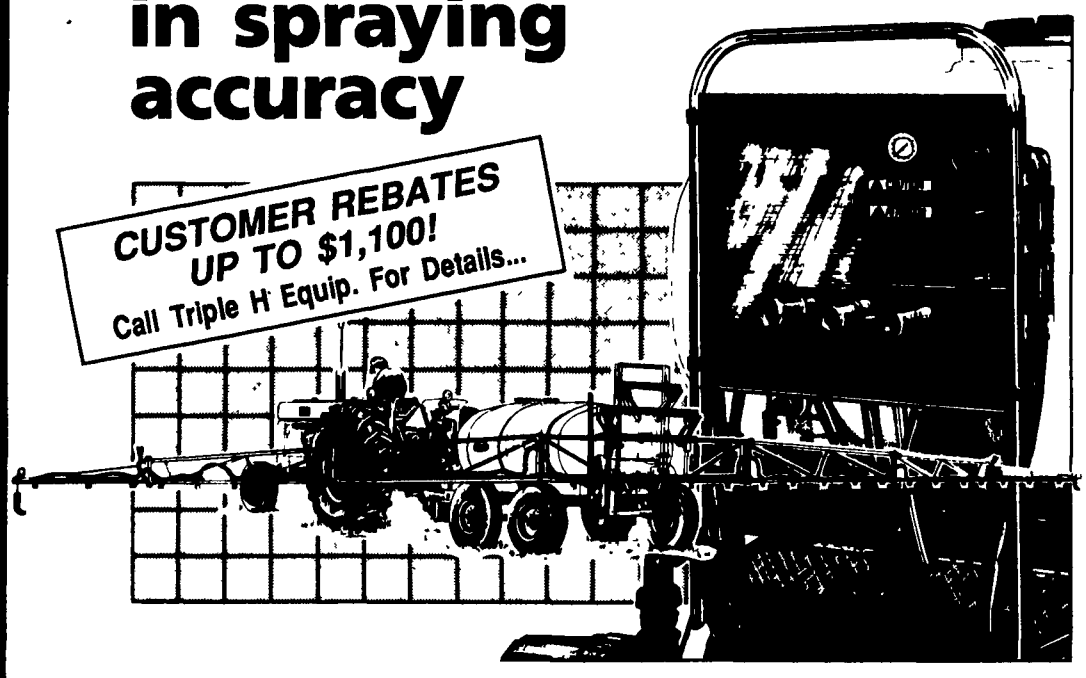
Breakthrough in spraying accuracy



Wasting chemical and yield on hills and headlands is a thing of the past with Vicon's new flow proportioning and boom compensation system. Application rate remains constant even when ground speed varies or individual boom sections are shut off. That means better coverage with lower input costs.

It is available on all Vicon trailer sprayers with tank capacities up to 785 U.S. gal. (3000 litres) and automatic stabilizing booms from 28' to 62'. There's also a choice of hydraulic or manual folding booms and a range of accessories that make crop spraying less of a chore.

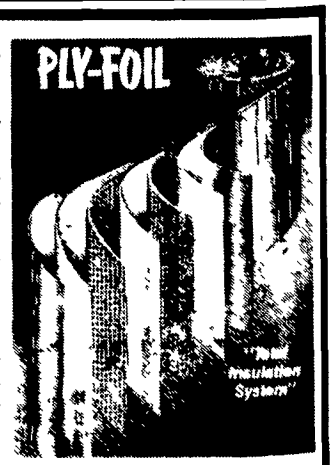
All Panels (Many Colors) Available With 3 To 7 Day Delivery

PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.



PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity, do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

PREVENTING HEALTH PROBLEMS IN BACKYARD FLOCKS

Donald L. Singletary
Dept. of Veterinary Science

The Penn State Poultry Diagnostic Laboratory sees a number of cases from small backyard flocks. The following case represents a typical submission.

On April 12, 1989 a shipment consisting of a single dead, mature, red-feathered bantam hen arrived at the lab.

A brief accompanying letter contained the following information: These people have had a problem in their chickens for several years. They say it started with some chickens that were given to them. It has now spread to all the birds. The lesions start on the legs and eventually destroy the skin and then the bone. On some of the chickens, one leg will be completely destroyed due to fractures. These birds will then go around on one leg.

The bird was diagnosed as having scaly leg mite, an easily recognizable and treatable health problem. Proper health control measures would have prevented the problem which caused the devastating lesions in this flock.

The most important health control measures backyard flock owners can take to prevent health problems in their existing flocks is to carefully examine and to isolate any new birds before adding them to their flock. This practice is a simple but effective means of preventing serious flock health problems.

It is particularly important for any birds obtained from a poultry auction but, as seen in this case, even from well-meaning friends. Thus, isolate any new birds for at least two weeks and preferably four weeks before adding them to an existing flock.

Also, backyard flock owners should seek help before any disease reaches such devastating proportions in a flock. The first source of help should be the county extension office. These people can provide a variety of information on all aspects of poultry raising. They can even arrange to have your flock examined or have birds sent to the diagnostic laboratory.

Susquehanna Co. Selects Dairy Day Committee

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — The committee for the 1991 Susquehanna County Dairy Day to be held on Friday, March 15, 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. at the Elk Lake High School has been announced by the Susquehanna County Cooperative Extension.

This committee has been involved with obtaining speakers and exhibitors. They will also be involved in several ways at the event, including lunch, seating, exhibitor setup, door prizes, dairy product handouts, and other items.

The program at Dairy Day will include educational presentations; commercial exhibits; milk, ice cream and cheese bar; door prizes; dinner; and a report from Jody Williams, Susquehanna County Dairy Princess, and Misty Baker, Susquehanna County Alternate Dairy Princess.

Dairy farm people interested in attending are urged to make dinner reservations by calling the extension office at (717) 278-1158.

BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best -
In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed The best again is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas
2. MAKING A NEW START spray on brush in painting on the renewed surface or resurfaced wood siding The above mentioned AIM of coating thickness can prevent future peeling and resurfacing cost & effort Simple, old fashioned brushing does most of the trick This film will let moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10 years of more Southern exposures usually wear faster

KNOW ANIMAL VITAL SIGNS

When you telephone the vet about a sick animal, it helps if you also know the animal's vital signs, specifically body temperature and breathing rate. It is also helpful if you know what is normal in order to help you decide whether or not to call the vet.

Below are normal body temperature ranges and breathing rates per minute for various farm animals:

Animal	Temp. Range
Horse	99.5-101.3
Foal	99.5-102.2
Cattle	100.4-103.1
Sheep	102.0-104.0
Swine	100.4-104.0
Goats	103.0-105.0
Dogs	101.0-103.0
Cats	100.5-102.5

Animal	Breaths/minute
Horse	8-16
Beef Cattle	10-30
Dairy Cattle	18-28
Sheep and Goats	12-20
Swine	8-18

What Weight to Breed Heifers

How heavy should beef heifers be at breeding time? That depends upon a number of things, including how big they will be as mature cows.

Research has shown that a beef heifer should develop to 65 percent of her expected mature weight at breeding time. Then she should reach 80 percent of her mature weight at calving time, plus an additional 100 extra pounds for the weight she will lose at calving.

The following table gives ideal target weights and gains for heifers that will mature out to four different body weights.

Cattlemen need to keep in mind that these are not average weights. Better than 90 percent of heifers cycling should meet these ideals.

Beef Heifer Data	Mature Cow Weights
	1000	1100	1200	1300
Weaning Wt.	450	500	550	600
ADG to Breeding	1.1	1.2	1.3	1.4
Min. Breeding Wt.	650	715	780	845
ADG to Calving	.93	.98	1.04	1.09
Min. Wt. at Calving	900	980	1060	1140

Marketing Cull Bulls

Muscling and body condition are the name of the game when you market cull bulls. Livestock market auctions want bulls in good shape, which will grade when sent to the slaughterhouse.

The base price that auction representatives set for bulls is based on muscling and condition. An overly fleshy bull will be docked because of decreased yield potential, as will an underweight, light-muscled bull.

The ideal bull to market is a streamlines, structurally sound bull with plenty of width and dimension over the top and down through the rump. Wide, sound feet and plenty of width through the brisket area also are strong marketing points. In addition, clean and shiny bulls often bring more money simply because they are presented well.

To reach this ideal market condition, you should feed bulls before selling to add condition they must have lost during the breeding season. By having the bulls in a feedlot, you also can watch for any signs of injury or disease.

In addition to body condition, the bull also should be mild-tempered. Flighty, nervous bulls often signal to buyers dark-cutters, which reduce yield quality.

Soil Testing Key To Pasture Management

many cattlemen describe their pasture as poor, only an exercise lot, or an unproductive piece of land. Land owners should realize that 90% of all pasture land can be productive and produce inexpensive quality feed for your herd.

The first step to a productive pasture is a soil test. In order to have a lush green pasture, providing lime and fertilizer is a must. And if you are going to lime and fertilize, you need to know the quantities that your soil needs.

Some land owners decide to guess, which leads to two problems: if they overestimate, they lose money by buying too much fertilizer, and if they guess too low, they will not get the potential productivity from their land. The only way to be sure is to test your pasture's soil.

A soil test is a simple matter if you take the time to do it. Soil test kits are available from your county extension office and instructions are included with each kit.

Managing Baby Pigs

The first rule of baby pig management is to keep the pigs warm and dry. Newborn pigs are essentially cold-blooded animals and their body temperature will be very close to the temperature of the surroundings.

When born into an environment that's less than 90 to 95 degrees F, the pigs will have to burn extra energy to keep warm. So at best, the pigs will stop growing. At worst, their fat and glycogen stores will be quickly depleted, and they will be in a life-threatening situation.

The second rule of baby pig management is to be sure that every pig gets colostrum. Colostrum contains a high level of immune globulins that are absorbed directly by the pigs during their early hours of life.

Holstein Beef Symposium Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)— A national symposium on Holstein beef production will be held Feb. 13-15 at the Penn Harris Inn and Convention Center in Harrisburg, Pa.

The symposium, a cooperative effort between commercial operators and several universities, is sponsored by the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service.

Penn State College of Agriculture faculty and staff will be on hand to discuss issues and trends in this growing segment of Pennsylvania's agriculture industry. The symposium will examine topics ranging from opportunities for Holstein beef production to marketing finished Holstein steers.

The potential for Holstein steers in a beef feeding operation will be discussed by John Comerford, assistant professor of dairy and animal science at Penn State. Extension veterinarian Larry Hutchinson will discuss environmental requirements for dairy beef health. The impact of increased demand for Holstein feeder cattle on calf prices will be addressed by agricultural economist H. Louis Moore.

Nutritional management of Holstein steers will be the focus of a session led by Harold Harpster, associate professor of dairy and animal science. A session on marketing finished Holstein steers will be led by extension meat specialist William R. Henning.

Speakers also will include government and business representatives and faculty from Cornell University, West Virginia University, and the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

A registration fee of $140 includes admission to the symposium, one lunch, refreshment breaks, and a copy of the symposium proceedings. The proceedings also will be available for $20 for those unable to attend. Checks should be made payable to NRAES, 152 Riley-Cobb Hall, Cooperative Extension, Ithaca, NY 14853.

Extension Slates Woodlands, Legal Issues Seminar

WARREN (Warren Co.)— "Woodland and Legal Issues" will be the featured topic of an upcoming seminar for private land owners organized by Penn State Cooperative Extension. The program will be staged in Warren on Saturday, February 23, 1991 from 1-4 p.m.

According to Sanford Smith, extension agent, the program has been organized at the request of many individuals who are perplexed by the numerous legal issues that effect woodland ownership.

"For many woodland owners, there are more questions than there are answers," said Smith. "Questions like: Am I liable for hunters and recreational vehicles on my property? Will posting effect my liability? Is the old oil and gas right of way through my property still valid? and What does timber theft involve? are often asked."

The seminar will cover several of the more pertinent legal issues that concern woodlands, and answer many of the questions frequently asked. Smith also points out that "it is not the intent of the program to provide individual legal counsel for specific problems."

The topics to be covered in the program include an overview of the trespass law and property posting, landowner rights and responsibilities, rights of way, and the problem of timber left.

The speakers participating in the program are John C. Becker (J.D., Law), associate professor, Penn State University; Arthur J. Stewart, attorney-at-law, Warren; David Miller, consulting forester, Allegheny Forestry Inc.; and extension agent Sanford Smith.

Pre-registration is required for the program, and there is a $2 fee. For a program brochure, contact the Warren County Cooperative Extension office at (814) 723-6003.

Flushing Increases Litter Size In Gilts

Many producers increase the energy content of the ration prior to breeding (flushing) in hopes of increasing litter size. Does flushing really work?

A recent Kansas State University study examined the effect of flushing on ovulation rate and litter size in gilts. Thirty-nine gilts were flushed with 3.4 pounds of ground milo in addition to a 4-pound basal diet for two weeks prior to breeding. Forty-two more gilts were fed just the 4-pound basal diet. All gilts were bred on the first heat after the start of the trial and then classified as to whether they were bred on the first or subsequent heats.

Flushed gilts bred on the first heat ovulated more eggs (14.4 vs 13.3) and farrowed larger litters (9.4 vs. 8.3) than gilts that weren't flushed. Flushing had no significant effect on ovulation rates or litter size in gilts bred on their second or subsequent heats, although ovulation rates tended to be higher.

It appears that flushing may increase litter size in gilts on most farms, especially if gilts are bred at first heat.

No Long-Term Effects Of Feed And Water Restriction At Feeder-Pig Sales

A joint study of feeder pigs by the University of Nebraska and the University of Missouri found no effect of 1) injecting long-acting tetracycline upon arrival at the feeder pig market; 2) feed and water restriction at the market; 3) restricted floor feeding during the first week after arriving at the farm.

In the study, researchers comingled nearly 300 pigs at a commercial feeder pig auction. While at the sale barn, half the pigs received 2 to 3 cc of LA-200. In addition, pigs received feed and water, water only, or neither. Pigs were then transported 500 miles (travel time approximately 20 hours) to the research facilities. Once the pigs arrived at the research farm, half of them were floor-fed twice a day, the others had access to a self-feeder.

Results:

- Pigs receiving feed and water at the sale barn were roughly two pounds heavier for the first 16 days after arriving at the research barn. But feed and water, or water only at the sale barn, provided no long term benefits in growth rate or feed conversion.
- LA-200 injections at the sale barn had no effects on performance, death loss, or the number of pigs treated during the grow-out period.
- Floor feeding decreased weight gains during the first 9 days at the research barn. But it had no overall effect on any performance trait.

Conclusions:

- Water for pigs is probably not needed at feeder pigs auctions unless the temperature is over 75 degrees, or pigs remain at the auction for more than 12 hours.
- Feed is apparently not necessary at feeder pigs auctions unless pigs remain there for more than 12 hours.
- Injecting pigs with LA-200 upon arrival at feeder pigs auctions seems to be of little value.
- Restricting feed to newly arrived feeder pigs, which is often done to decrease problems with diarrhea, has no long-term detrimental effects on performance.

Designing On-Farm Trials

Many pork producers have conducted on-farm trials to compare different rations, feed additives, or management practices. Unfortunately, the data from these trials is often unless because the trial was poorly designed. S.M. Neal from Ohio State recently listed some important considerations for setting up on-farm trials.

- Carefully select and isolate the feed product or management practice to be compared. Make sure all variables are accounted for except the variables being tested. For example, in comparing two feed additives for growing pigs, the protein, fat, fiber, and lysine content of the rations should be similar.
- Limit the number of products or management practices in the comparison.
- The environment must be constant for all treatments (i.e. same room or barn, same feeders, same flooring, etc.).
- Assign treatments to pens within a room at random.
- Minimize genetic differences. Each pen should have the same number of pigs from each litter. Pigs should be of the same breed, line or cross for all treatments.

Crop Production Services Represents Hoffman Seeds

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.)— Hoffman Seeds, Inc. has announced that Crop Production Services, Inc. will carry Hoffman Seed and Ciba-Geigy seed products in their Northeast farm centers.

"This venture will improve our distribution in the Northeast," said Fred Lepley, vice president of sales and marketing for Hoffman. "They have a strong customer base in the Northeast and carry a solid reputation."

Crop Production Services (CPS) has 16 outlets in the Hoffman sales territory and carries a complete line of agricultural products such as fertilizers, chemicals, insecticides, and farm seeds. They also provide today's professional farmers with agronomic advice.

"Our objective," said Wayne Duha, general manager of CPS's northeast division, "is to provide sound agronomic advice, reliable field services, and crop production inputs at fair prices," he said.

"Hoffman offered the best partnership of the seven major seed companies we approached. We felt they provided the best plan to make us successful seedsmen," he said.

"Equally important, they're backed by research and biotechnology and offer a full line of products and services," said Duha.

Terra Farm Software Offers Diverse Applications

PORTLAND, Ore. — The Terra high-yield agricultural software program from Doane Information Services provides growers a way to keep track of many diverse enterprises, including migrant worker payroll.

Designed for growers, Terra is useful on various types of fruit and vegetable farms. Worker information is inputted, and various types of data can be included, including W2 forms on magnetic media; pay history; quarterly unemployment; Form 943 information; bonuses and one-time deductions; advances; handwritten checks; housing deposits; workers compensation; earned income credit; register of taxes due; piece-rate/minimum wage comparison; and ESA92 report.

An enterprise costing module includes ways to determine profitability of each crop, equipment piece, livestock group, or any other farm part. Field chemical records can be tracked with Terra. Terra also provides a full general ledger for complete financial management and tax planning.

Other types of services Terra can manage include accounts payable, asset depreciation, equipment management, and report management.

For further information, contact Doane Information Services, Datasphere Division, 6443 SW Beaverton-Hillsdale Highway, Portland, OR 97221.

Pioneer Offers Farm Program Software

POLK, Neb.— Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. is making a software program available to producers around the country who are facing massive changes in the U.S. Farm Program.

Developed and distributed exclusively by Pioneer since 1985, the Farm Program Option Viewer software helps producers weigh their acreage reduction alternatives under the U.S. Farm Program.

The software provides bottom-line results in net profits or losses for a farm under varius levels of participation. Utilizing pull-down menus and a simplified data entry process, reports can be generated that illustrate various scenarios.

The 1991 Farm Program Option Viewer operates on any MS-DOS-compatible personal computer with at least 512K RAM and DOS Version 2.1 or greater. The standalone program does not require any additional software for operation.

A $49.95 value, the Farm Program Option Viewer is available free through local Pioneer sales representatives. Producers who are unsure of who their local representative is may call toll-free (800) 338-5878 to obtain the name.

Telmark Honors Sales Managers

SYRACUSE, N.Y.— Several local Telmark Inc. sales managers surpassed 110% of goal and were in the top 20% of all Telmark sales reps to qualify for the prestigious "President's Club."

This honorary award is for salespeople in Telmark's 17-state sales force. They were:

• Doug Snee/Waynesburg, Pa. His territory covers northern West Virginia; western Maryland, eastern Ohio; and southwestern Pennsylvania.

• Andrew McLean/Easton, Md. His territory covers southern Delaware and eastern Maryland.

• Lisa Francisco/Branchville, N.J. Her territory covers northern New Jersey and southeastern Pennsylvania.

'Cleanup Crew' Controls Residue

PEORIA, Ill.— Yetter Mfg. Co.'s recently introduced "Cleanup Crew" gives operators a choice of three tools designed to clear away residue ahead of planter openers and prepare the desired seedbed.

The first member of the crew is the Yetter Trash Master, whose smooth blades can be adjusted to engage and level the soil for a uniform, litter-free seedbed in rough ground.

Next is the residue manager, a set of angled wheels with steel fingers that throw aside corn stalks and other heavy residue. The residue manager clears a path for planter openers without disturbing the soil. This tool is ideal for both row crop rotation and continuous corn, and it doesn't disturb pre-applied herbicides.

The third member is the residue brush, a set of rotary brushes of durable polymer that greatly sweep aside residues, leaving the soil untouched. Because the soil is undisturbed, herbicide control will not be lost, especially when applied at reduced rates.

For information, contact Yetter Mfg. Co., Colchester, IL 62326-0358, (800) 447-5777 or (309) 776-4111.

The L-553

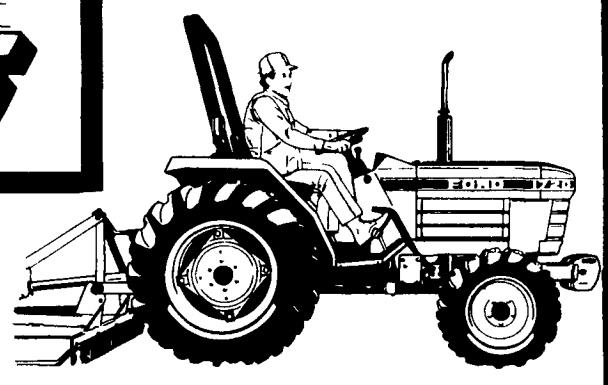
SPECIAL PRICES ON L553 & L555 DEMO SKID LOADERS

You get unmatched forward dump reach with the Model L-553 skid-steer loader from New Holland. That's because the unique boom lift linkage lifts the payload forward as it rises to load the center of large spreaders and trucks, while the self-leveling boom linkage keeps the bucket level, for less chance of spillback. The result—faster dumping and fuller loads, for more work per hour. The "L-553" has a 42-inch wheelbase and a low center of gravity for outstanding stability. Stop in soon and take the Model L-553 on a test run.

Test drive this diesel and you'll hear a great reason to buy it.



Put yourself behind the wheel of a new Ford compact diesel now during our Demo Days. You'll hear a great reason to buy it. The reduced noise level. On the models 1120 through 1720, the noise has been cut by 25%. Less noise means you'll have less stress and you'll get more work done.

Come on down during Demo Days and hear for yourself.

USED & DEMO UNITS IN STOCK!

A quality machine backed by QUALITY SERVICE

Ford New Holland bulds 'em right. We back them with quality service and parts to keep them running right for you. The "358" is a 125-bushel capacity grinder-mixer. IMMUNITY VS. RESISTANCE ISSUE AFFECTS HOG HEALTH

Dr. Richard Barczewski
University of Delaware

While attending a pesticide applicators training session recently, I listened to a talk about the difference between immunity and resistance. These terms are sometimes used interchangeably, which is incorrect, and it's worth taking a little time to discuss the difference.

Resistance describes the ability of an insect to adapt "genetically" so as not to be affected by a pesticide. If an insect is resistant to a chemical insecticide like Lindane, for instance, it is because the insect has the genetic makeup to resist the negative effects of the compound.

Resistance can also be used to describe the genetic lines of internal parasites in swine and other farm animal species that are not controlled by certain common anthelmintics. Resistance refers to a population of organisms, whether they are roundworms, cockroaches, or Colorado potato beetles.

Immunity, on the other hand, describes an acquired ability to fight off a disease organism. Usually, immunity is acquired when an organism — a pig, a boy, or even a plant — is exposed to a disease organism.

For example, your pig gets sick. If its body can fight off the infection, the animal will be immune to the effects of future exposures to that organism.

Immunity describes an individual, not a population. Each individual must be exposed to the disease in order to develop an immunity.

Resistance, however, is something the organism is born with.

Why is this distinction important? Drug-resistant organisms such as internal parasites, insects, or bacteria pose a special problem to the livestock industry. Livestock producers must take care when selecting a deworming agent or antibiotic.

With swine, most resistant bacteria are discovered when the veterinarian cultures an organism and determines which antibiotics are effective against the bacteria causing the problem. An antibiotic that is not resistant to the bacteria is what is needed. This test saves on hit-and-miss shotgun treatments, especially if a disease organism is causing major problems in the herd.

Bacteria cultures and sensitivity screening are done, as a rule, on a larger scale more on milk samples from dairy cows with mastitis than on pigs. But it is a valuable tool worth considering in some situations.

Similarly, resistant internal parasites should be identified by a deworming failure. This is determined through fecal egg counts before and after a parasite treatment. Fortunately for the hog industry, internal parasite control failures are less common in swine than in sheep.

Immunity is also important since developing an immune response in a herd can help to avoid disease outbreaks. For this reason, depending on where you live and how you manage your herd, your local veterinarian may suggest a vaccination program that best fits the needs of your operation.

Obviously you don't need (or want) to vaccinate animals for every disease known to exist. The economic factors of the cost of vaccine and administration of that vaccine, likelihood of a disease outbreak, and economic implications of the outbreak should be considered when deciding on which immune responses to acquire.

For example, even though a vaccine exists to protect large-animal species from rabies, it would be imprudent to vaccinate a confined herd automatically The chance for exposure to this disease is minimal because the housing system would prevent contact with carrier animals. Also rabies may not be a problem in your area, in which case there is no need to vaccinate.

If, however, you are producing valuable breeding animals in an outside operation and an epidemic of rabies breaks out in your area, you may consider the cost of vaccinating the herd justifiable.

Resistance and immunity are important terms to know for people concerned about the well-being and general health of their livestock. It's important that you know how resistance and immunity can affect your ability to produce healthy animals and to recognize the tools.

New antibiotics, anthelmintics, and vaccines can help you in overseeing the health of your animals and your business.

Grape Seminar Set

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.)— The 1991 Southeast Pennsylvania Grape Production Seminar will be held February 25, 1991 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn Conference Center, Fogelsville.

The program will include detailed discussions on sprayer maximization and new sprayer technology, recent developments in grape disease management, insect management, and canopy management.

Fungicide resistance and failure will be covered, including new option to old disease problems. An open-ended question and answer session with the panel of speakers will top off the day.

The panel will include Dr. Don Daum, professor, ag engineering; Dr. Carl Haeseler, professor, pomology; Dr. James Travis, associate professor, plant pathology; and Dr. Michael Saunders, assistant professor, entomology.

Pesticide credits will be offered. Cost is $20, which includes lunch and materials. For additional information or a registration form, contact Eric Vorodi, Lehigh/Northampton County agent, (215) 391-9840.

National Polled Hereford Show Set

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — American Polled Hereford Association members from every corner of the country are planning to gather in the southeastern region of the nation as the breed celebrates its 68th National Polled Hereford Convention, Show, and Sale Feb. 11-14 in Jackson, Miss.

Nearly 500 head of bulls, heifers, and cow-calf pairs are entered in the national show, set for Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 12-13, during the Dixie National Livestock Show. Judges for the two-day event are Jarold Callahan, Oklahoma State University, Stillwater; Steve Radakovich, Earlham, Iowa; and Keith Rooker, Uniontown, Pa.

Convention activities planned during the week include the annual meetings of the APHA membership and the National Organization of Poll-ettes, the auxiliary to the APHA. Highlighting convention activities on Monday, Feb. 11, is an educational seminar playing off the breed's new promotional theme, "Polled Hereford The Cost-Cutting Beef Breed."

The seminar, "Breakthroughs in Cost-Cutting," will focus on better familiarizing APHA members with trends in the beef industry, particularly in the need of cutting costs. Guest speakers include NCA's Chuck Lambert and Merlyn Carlson, a former NCA Chairman and a Beef Board member. Lambert will discuss the cost-cutting changes being made on the packing side of the industry, while Carlson will present changes from a producer's standpoint. A three-member breeder reaction panel will lead a question and answer session.

Numerous awards headline the Convention Week, with some being the naming of the National Poll-ette of the Year, the crowning of the 1991 National Polled Hereford Queen, and the induction of five breed and beef industry leaders into the Polled Hereford Hall of Fame and Hall of Merit.

Glenn Burrows, a long-time Polled Hereford breeder from Clayton, N.M., will be inducted into the Hall of Fame. Hall of Merit honorees include Fred "Hoss" Shaw, Jackson, Miss., for his work in communications; Sue Saltmarsh, Beavercreek, Ore., for her work with youth; Dr. Larry Benyshek, University of Georgia, Athens; for his excellence in education and research; and J. Burton Eller, Jr., NCA senior vice president of government affairs, for his work in public affairs.

Dale Minnick, a humorist, motivator, and cattleman from Woodward, Okla., will entertain members and guests attending the National Awards Banquet on Wednesday evening, Feb. 13. Jim Harris, long-time APHA employee, will also be recognized during banquet activities.

Breed association members will round out their week of events with the National Sale on Thursday, Feb. 14. Twenty-five herd additions are scheduled to sell that day at the Dixie National Fairgrounds Trade Mart.

Pa. Beef Expo To Host Junior Show

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Junior beef producers are invited to be a part of the 1991 Pennsylvania Beef Expo. The Pennsylvania Beef Expo is an annual event sponsored by Penn State, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Beef Council, and the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association.

The expo will be held at the Penn State Ag Arena from March 28 and 30. The Junior Steer Show is scheduled for Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. following the MAEC Tested Bull Sale. The heifer show will be held the next day, Saturday, March 30, at 8 a.m. prior to the purebred female sales. Steer classes will be divided based on hip height, while heifer classes will be divided by age within breed.

Youth interested in participating in these shows, or the other activities of the Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemen's Association, contact Melanie Barkley, R.D. 1, Box 2, Aaronsburg, PA 16820, (814) 349-5728.

Poultry Association Recognizes Multigenerational Businesses

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster Poultry Association has established a new award to recognize Lancaster Co. families that have owned a poultry business for at least two generations.

The businesses may be farms, marketing, feed, poultry supplies, or poultry service businesses.

These "multigenerational" businesses will be recognized at the Lancaster Co. Poultry Progress Day, March 7, 1991, at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

"Lancaster County is one of this country's top poultry producing areas," said Thomas R. Pantano, president of the association. "This is the result of many poultry operations being in the same family for several generations. As an association, we take pride in Lancaster County and the many fine farm familes that are involved in agriculture, especially the poultry industry."

This award recognizes one of the strengths of the poultry industry — the multigenerational family business, said Pantano.

"One of the reasons the poultry industry is so strong in the county is because of the family farms," said Jay Irwin, Lancaster Co. extension director. "The strength of the industry is in the family farm. We are trying to identify and recognize those families who have maintained that tradition."

During the Poultry Progress Day, a slide presentation will feature the farms that have contributed to the poultry industry in the county.

For more information and an application, contact the Lancaster Co. Poultry Association, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601. (717) 394-6851.

Franklin Co. Selects Conservation Officers

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Richard Stoner, Greencastle, was elected chairman of the Franklin County Conservation District board of directors at their reorganization meeting held recently. Stoner had served as vice chairman.

Wilbur Kline, Mont Alto, was elected vice chairman and Donna Hays, Spring Run, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Re-elected as delegate to executive council meetings of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts is Andrew Fitz, Waynesboro. Clifford Hawbaker, Chambersburg, will serve as alternate delegate.

County Commissioner Joe Ausherman administered the oath of office to Clifford Hawbaker, who will begin as new farmer director for a four-year term. Ausherman will again serve a one-year term and county commissioner director.

Two cooperator agreements were approved for conservation planning assistance. They are Snavely's Garden Corner, Guilford Township, and James Hoover, Lurgan Township.

Beef Expo Set For March

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The second annual Pennsylvania Beef Expo will be held March 28-30 here in Penn State's Agricultural Arena.

The expo gives beef producers and others a chance to see the latest technology and available services. Attractions at the event include an all-breed performance-tested bull sale, cattle evaluations and sales, a trade show with more than 60 commercial and 10 nonprofit exhibitors, an educational program, and newly featured junior steer and heifer shows.

This year's educational program emphasizes management and health of cows and calves. It also features a special consumer research panel for information on beef preferences. The program will be held Thursday, March 28, at the Meats Laboratory on the University Park Campus. The program is sponsored by the Penn State College of Agriculture, the Pennsylvanias Beef Council, and the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association.

The junior steer show will be held Friday after the all-breed bull sale, and the heifer show will be held Saturday morning.

The trade show opens at 8 a.m. Friday, March 29, and the 18th annual all-breed performance-tested bull sale begins at noon. With more than 60 bulls offered, this is one of the top bull sales in the country. Show and sale cattle will be on display throughout Friday.

The cattle breed sales, consisting of cows and heifers of all ages, will be held Saturday, March 30. Breeds to be sold include Angus, Charolais, Chianina, Limousin, Polled Hereford, Salers, Santa Gertrudis, and Simmental.

The bull testing program is cosponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, Penn State, and the Pennsylvania Beef Breed Associations.

The 18th annual cattlemen's awards banquet will be held Friday evening at the Elks Club, about four miles east of State College on Route 322.

Pre-registration for the banquet and educational program are requested. Those wishing to enter the junior steer and heifer shows should contact the Pennsylvania Beef Expo office at 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803, (814) 865-5857.

Nurserymen's Association Plans Luncheon

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Awards Committee of the Pennsylvania Nurserymen's Association will hold an award's luncheon from noon to 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, February 12, 1991 at JP Mallard's in the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

The luncheon will feature scholastic awards, awards for excellence in landscaping, life membership awards, the induction of 1991 president, recognition of retiring board members, and the 1990 Nurseryman of the Year Award.

The $20 fee includes lunch and beverage. For a registration form, contact the Pennsylvania Nurseryman's Association, 1924 North Second Street, Harrisburg, PA 17102, (717) 238-1673.

Soybean, Corn Conference Airs Opportunities

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — What's new?

The promise of answers to that perennial question is what usually entices farmers to attend wintertime educational meetings and trade expositions such as the eleventh annual Delmarva Corn and Soybean Technology Conference, scheduled Feb. 13 at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center in Salisbury.

Sponsors include agribusiness firms and the cooperative extension service at land-grant universities in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia.

Program highlights will include identifying weed problems in cornfields, a leadoff inspirational talk, and presentation of the annual Delmarva Corn and Soybean Technology Conference scholarship to outstanding undergraduate students majoring in agriculture — one each from the University of Delaware and the University of Maryland System.

This year's speaker on corn production problems is Dr. Marshal D. McGlamery, an agronomy specialist for the cooperative extension service at the University of Illinois.

An agronomy faculty member there since 1965, Dr. McGlamery has served as a weed control consultant for INTSOY, an international soybean program based at the University of Illinois. This research, education, and development endeavor is designed to encourage the use of soybeans to help alleviate world hunger.

McGlamery also has served as a consultant with the Consortium for International Crop Protection, headquartered at the University of Maryland College Park.

McGlamery holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from Oklahoma State University and a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois.

His presentation at the Delmarva Corn and Soybean Technology Conference is expected to deal with the role of integrated weed management systems in corn production.

Wayne Humphreys, an Eastern Iowa crop and livestock farmer, will start off the Feb. 13 program at 10 a.m. with a mixture of humor and inspiration in a talk titled "Lead With Your Aces." Humphreys lives on a family "century" farm. He is an Iowa State graduate and served as a national FFA vice president for the central region in 1970-71.

Other speakers and topics will include:

• "New Uses for Corn and Corn Products" — David R. Drennan, field services director for the National Corn Growers Association, headquartered at St. Louis, Mo.

• "Regulations for Storage, Transportation and Handling of Pesticides" — Jay J. Vroom, president of the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, based in Washington, D.C.

• "The Quick Soil Nitrate Test — Can It Be Used on the Eastern Shore?" — Mitchell D. Woodward, nutrient management consultant for the cooperative extension service, University of Maryland system.

• "New Problems With the Soybean Cyst Nematode" — Robert P. Mulrooney, plant pathology specialist for the cooperative extension service at the University of Delaware.

• "What's New in High-Management Wheat?" — F. Ronald Mulford and Dr. Daniel E. Brann. Mulford is farm manager at the Poplar Hill facility of the University of Maryland's Lower Eastern Shore Research and Education Center. Brann is an extension grain crops specialist at Virginia Tech.

Activities at the Delmarva Corn and Soybean Technology Conference will get under way at 8:30 a.m. with free coffee and fresh doughnuts made from soybean flour. Visitors also will have an opportunity to visit 49 commercial exhibits and five educational displays.

The formal program will run from 9:50 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Midway room at the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center, with lunch available from noon to 1:15 p.m.

Noon lunch tickets at $3 each should be purchased by Feb. 6 from offices of the cooperative extension service throughout the Delmarva area in order to guarantee that a meal will be available. Admission is free for the program sessions. Fast-food restaurants are available within easy walking distance of the conference site.

S. Derby Walker, Jr., a Sussex County agricultural agent for the cooperative extension service at the University of Delaware, is planning committee chairman for this year's conference. Gerald B. Truitt, Jr., of Salisbury will be master of ceremonies. Truitt is executive secretary of Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., a trade organization.

The Wicomico Youth and Civic Center is located behind the Salisbury Shopping Mall, off U.S. Highway 50, in southeast Salisbury. Plenty of free parking is available.

1991 Md. Tobacco Auctions Begin In April

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The 1991 Maryland Tobacco auction season will begin on April 3 and will last over a four-week session, closing on April 25, according to Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr.

His announcement follows recommendations of the State Tobacco Authority, which earlier proposed the sales dates after consulting with tobacco buyers, warehousemen, and growers.

Running over a four week period, the 1991 sales will be held on 14 days as follows: April 3-4 for the first week, April 8-11 the second week, April 15-18 the third week, and April 22-25 for the final week.

Sales will be held at the six public tobacco warehouses located at Wayson's Corner, Waldorf, Upper Marlboro (2) and Hughesville (2).

The tobacco to be sold is the 1990 Maryland crop which was harvested on an estimated 7,100 acres, the lowest harvested acreage ever in Maryland in more than 200 years.

The 1990 crop of Maryland-grown tobacco is estimated to be about 9.4 million pounds, up 16 percent from the 8.1 million pounds grown in 1989.

Growers report a quality crop, with a high proportion of the leaf of good color and very thin characteristics which are favored by buyers, particularly those representing foreign tobacco companies.

Fact: 121 alfalfa varieties were reviewed by the National Alfalfa Variety Review Board (NAVRB) from 1986 through 1989.

Fact: Only three of these varieties were classified as winterhardy by the NAVRB.

Fact: All three of these varieties are from Pioneer.

In 1986, the National Alfalfa Variety Review Board (NAVRB) began requiring winter survival data before any alfalfa variety could be classified as winterhardy. Since 1986, successful winter survival data has been accepted for only three varieties—5472, 5373 and 5262—all from Pioneer. Prior to 1986, 5432 and 526 from Pioneer had also successfully met the standards to be classified as winterhardy.

Until 1986, the standard measure for winterhardiness had been based on the fall dormancy rating of an alfalfa variety.

However, research data now indicates that a direct correlation between dormancy and winterhardiness does not always exist.

The other 118 varieties reviewed by the National Alfalfa Variety Review Board from 1986 through 1989 carry only a dormancy classification—such as dormant, moderately dormant or non-dormant—but do not carry any type of winterhardy classification. Before gaining any type of winterhardy claim, the company or institution submitting the variety must submit winter survival data.

Isolation Required To Ensure Top Eating Quality Of Corns

KALAMAZOO, Mich.— Standard sweet corns are no longer the common choice of consumers buying sweet corn at fresh markets and roadside stands. With improved sweetness, flavor and the ability to retain their sweetness longer, shrunken-2 (sh-2) sweet corns are pushing their way into markets.

Sh-2s fit well in the sweet corn mix of taste-conscious consumers and profit-oriented retailers, but to feed those markets, growers need to take steps to ensure high quality of sh-2s.

"Sh-2 sweet corns don't mix well in the field when other types of corn are planted nearby," said Steve Marshall, sweet corn breeder.

"When sh-2s are pollinated by other types of sweet corn or field corn, the end result is field, or dent, corn types."

Xenia, the influence of pollen on the kernel expression, causes this condition. In sweet corn, xenia affects endosperm, the part of the kernel that consumers like to eat.

"With the first bite of dented corn, you know that something is wrong," said Marshall. "The corn will taste starchy, almost bitter. Xenia increases starch and reduces sweetness in sh-2 sweet corns."

Standard sweet corns express a recessive "sugary" su-1 gene, accumulating about twice as much sugar as most field corns, mostly in the form of sucrose. If standard sweet corn, with its recessive su-1 "sugary" gene, is pollinated by field corn with the dominant Su gene, ears will be starchy rather than sweet.

"The problem with sh-2s is that they are more closely related to field corn than to other sweet corns," said Marshall. He explains that sh-2s contain both a sh-2 gene and the dominant Su gene, also found in field corn. When sh-2 corn cross-pollinates, the dominant Su gene masks the sh-2 genes for sweetness, and the result is starchiness.

"When this happens, kernels have all of the characteristics of field corn. They'll have a white, floury appearance, dryness, and starchy texture," he said, "and will taste awful when eaten."

Xenia also affects kernel color. Within sweet corn color, the gene for yellow dominates, while the white gene is recessive; xenia affects color when the dominant yellow hybrid pollinates the recessive white hybrid. Pollination from a yellow corn causes yellow kernels to show up in a white sweet corn variety. You can see the results shortly after pollination, as kernels start to develop, said Marshall.

Because of greater demand during the main season, roadside stand operators and retailers often receive higher prices for sh-2 corns, according to Marshall. Isolating sh-2s will ensure growers that the corn they're selling is worth higher prices.

"Sh-2 sweet corns will live up to their genetic potential if growers isolate to reduce the risk of xenia and follow other proper cultural practices," said Marshall. "Growers can isolate by space, time, and/or wind direction."

In Florida, growers had serious problems with isolation when sh-2s were introduced several years ago, because they planted experimental strips in the middle of standard sweet corn fields. "They expected sweeter corn but got dent instead. Now, most growers plant sh-2s exclusively," said Marshall.

To isolate by space, Marshall recommends that growers plant sh-2 corns at least 350 feet away from any other type of corn.

"Isolation by distance is difficult in the Midwest, Northeast, and mid-Atlantic areas, because so many types of corn are planted," said Marshall. "One grower may plant two or three hybrids on just a couple of acres. In such situations, a growers must isolate by time."

There are two ways to isolate by time -- maturity of the hybrid and date of planting.

"The greatest risk of xenia is between sh-2s and other types of sweet corn," said Marshall. "The risk of cross-pollination beteen sweet corn and field corn planted at the same time is minimal under normal growing conditions, because sweet corns usually mature in 60 to 80 days and field corns mature in 90 days or more."

To isolate by maturity, growers should plant varieties that are at least 10 days apart in maturity, said Marshall. "An early standard sweet corn can be planted at the same time as a midseason or late sh-2 sweet corn with little risk of xenia under normal growing conditions," he said.

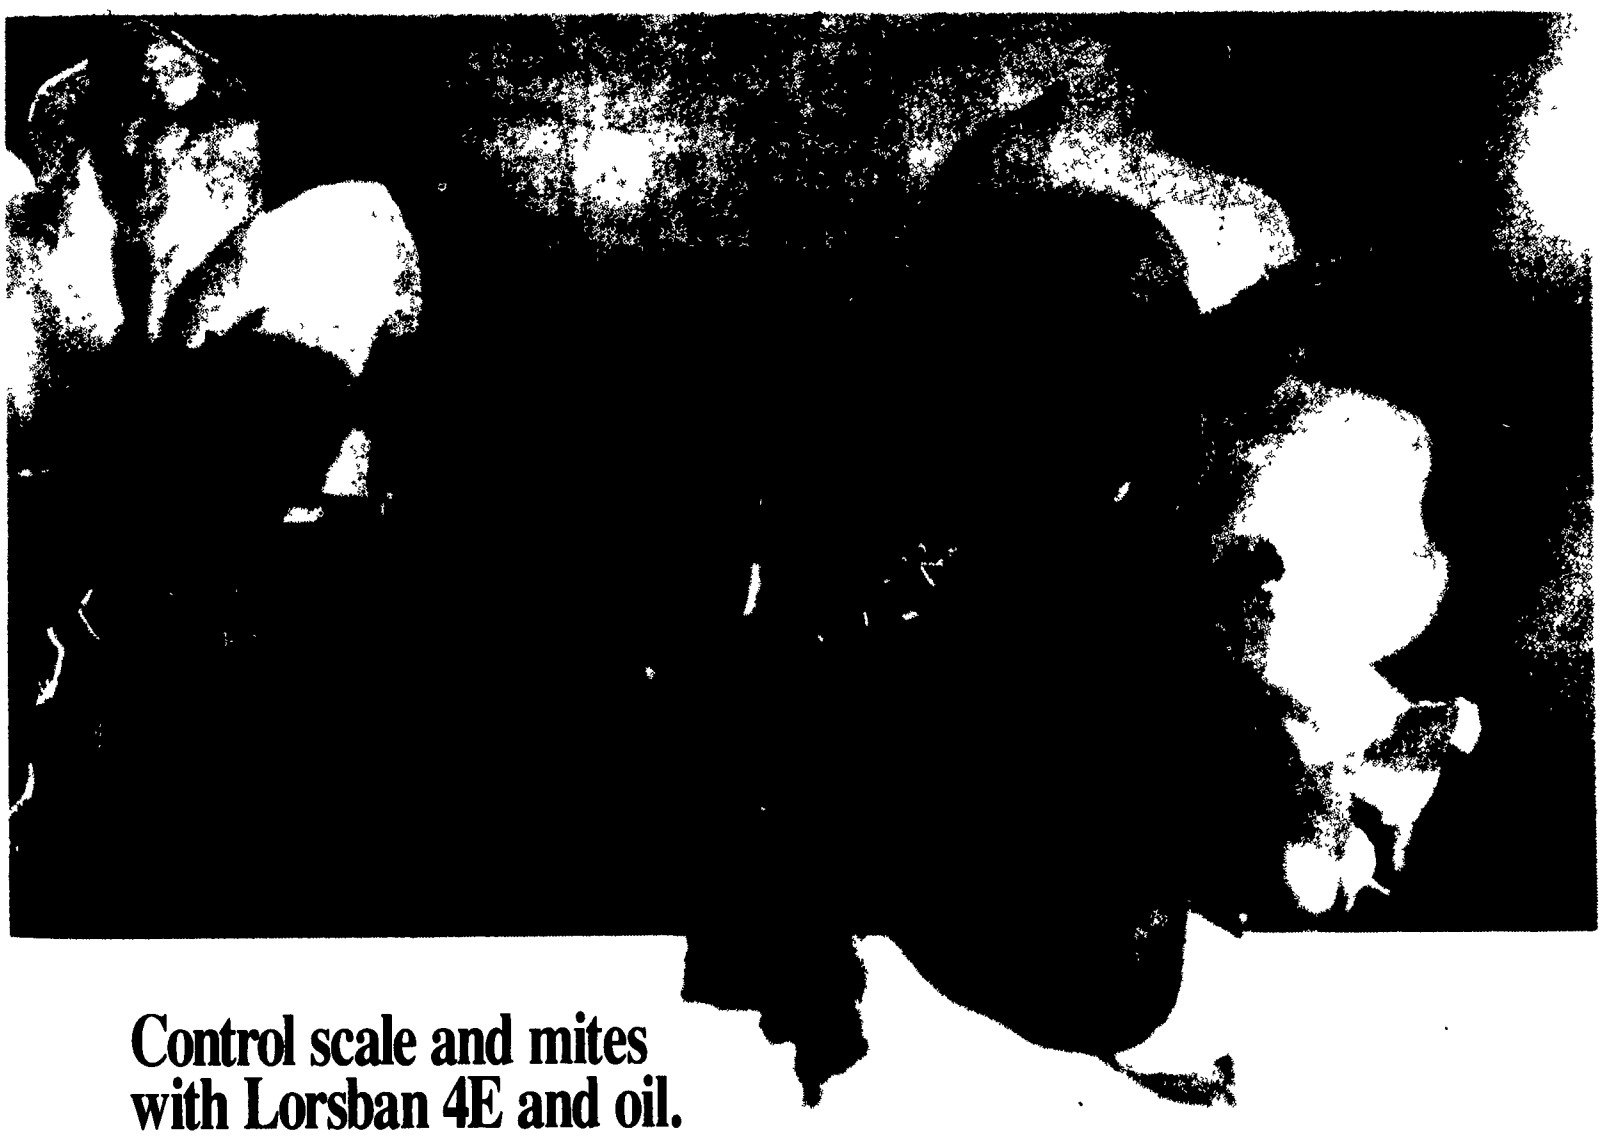
"Growers planting sh-2 and other types of sect corn with the same maturity should isolate by planting time. A standard sweet corn and a sh-2 with identical maturity should be planted at least 10 days apart," said Marshall.

The same rules for isolating by space or time apply for planting white sweet corn near yellow or bicolor varieties.

"Wind direction also can be used to help isolate sweet corns," said Marshall. Sh-2 corn should be planted upwind if it must be planted near field corn.

"Consumers have high expectations for sh-2 corns because of their improved flavor and strong abilities," said Marshall. "Growers should do everything possible to ensure that their sh-2s meet buyers' expectations."

Make Sure Your Dormant Apple Trees Wake Up Healthy



Control scale and mites with Lorsban 4E and oil.

PARC Completes Research Facility

EASTON, Md.— The PARC Institute of Easton, MD has announced the completion of a new turkey research facility.

According to Dr. James McNaughton, director of research, "The facility has been designed with maximum flexibility to meet the research needs of the turkey industry."

A large number of floor pens are available for work which requries well-replicated research conducted under growing conditions that approximates commercial turkey housing.

A specific area has also been included in the facility for research that requires replicated floor pen work under sanitized conditions.

In addition to the two floor pen areas, battery cage capability is also available.

McNaughton said, "Although most of the research conducted for clients will be nutrition and health related, the facilities are fully capable of performing breed evaluation, management practice, and other types of research."

A brochure is available that fully describes the research capabilities of the PARC Institute. For copies, write to the PARC Institute, Inc., P.O. Box 1161, Easton, MD 21601.
